GOOD FRIENDS!

United States Senator W. Murray Crane sends a letter of regret to the Young Men's Republican Club of Dorchester at his inability to attend the Lodge outing to-day at Nantasket Point. The Senator pleads a "previous engagement." He is in New York. Senator Lodge has denied that there is any political ill-feeling between his colleague and himself. Senator Crane has nothing to say.

MORAN HALTS BRIBE PROBE; NEW MYSTERY IN BIG LOAN SCANDAL

Lawyer Interested in Behalf of Prominent Politician Mentioned in Case Causes Sensation by Securing Names and Addresses of Jurymen—District Attorney Starts New Inquiry.

Pending the investigation of the story that a lawyer close to a prominent politician, the latter being mentioned in connection with the alleged bribery in the passing of the million and a half dollar loan bill, had called at the court house yesterday and obtained a list of the names of the present grand jury, the witnesses summoned to-day to testify before the grand jury were excused until 11 o'clock to-morrow.

When it became known to-day that the lawyer had got the list of Grand Jurors, it produced a sensation and a great deal of talk in political circles. No one would suggest openly why the lawyer got the names.

The name of the lawyer was not mentioned openly. The name of the politician was uttered guardedly The District Attorney, when he heard the report, immediately started an investigation.

Councilmen Pierce, Harding, McCabe and Woodside, Secretary Hormel of the Republican City Committee, and W. Herbert Hodges, a reporter for a morning newspaper, expected to go before the Grand Jury to-day and went to District Attorney Moran's office for that purpose.

TOLD POLITICAL STORIES.

The half-dozen men and the District Attorney chatted for more than an hour. It was understood that they did not talk much about the alleged bribery, but swapped political stories.

Councilman Pierce, Secretary Hormel and Mr. Hodges started to go to Nantasket to-day, where the Young Men's Republican Club are having an outing. Mr. Moran acceded to their request and adjourned the matter until to-morrow.

"But I don't want to come to-morrow," said Councilman Harding. "I'm in the militia and they are in camp. I lose $1 a day every day I'm away from camp."

"You can't talk back to me," said Moran, sharply, "the way you talk back to the government. You be here to-morrow and I'll put you on the first witness. Be here at 11 o'clock."

The District Attorney said that he would begin at 9 o'clock to-morrow to examine all the other councilmen in regard to the alleged bribery. Upon the result of this examination will depend how many of them will be called before the Grand Jury.

Councilman Pierce, who is largely responsible for the investigation because he related what Councilman Harding is alleged to have told him about bribery, today made this statement:

"As Mr. Harding and Mr. Moran have given interviews to the press perhaps it is in order for me to add my statement. I am not in the habit of betraying confidences, whether of friend or foe, so that I was considerably disturbed by the statement which appeared in the papers. As a matter of fact I resigned Mr. Harding from office three weeks in spite of the fact that he never even asked me not to tell the story. He did not give it to me in confidence.

PROMISED FINANCIAL AID.

"The only difference between Mr. Harding's recollection and my own was as follows. Mr. Harding remembered that the alleged bribe had offered to fix up certain streets for him, streets which he named, and that he had offered him financial assistance in his campaign in the Fall if he would vote for the loan bill. He did not remember saying that the alleged briber said to him: 'I will make you a present on account now.' Mr. Harding would not, however, say to Mr. Moran positively that he did not tell me that.

"I had told my story to Mr. Lee only a few hours after Mr. Harding told it to me. Mr. Moran felt that my recollection of the statement was the correct one."

GIRL DOUSED BOY TORMENTOR; FREED

Charged with assault upon John Connors, a six-year-old boy boy, of No. 16 Thomas Park, South Boston, Miss Florence A. McLean, a domestic employed at No. 17 Thomas Park, was found not guilty of the charge by Judge Lathrop in the South Boston District Court to-day. It was alleged that Connors annoyed Mrs. Susan M. Bray, an invalid who employs Miss McLean, on an invalid who employs Miss McLean, on the Fourth of July by discharging fire crackers. Miss McLean is alleged to have thrown a pail of water upon the Connors boy.

FEAR MISSING GIRL IS VICTIM OF STRANGLER

REPORT OF ANOTHER ATTACK ON CHILD STIRS NEW YORK TO FRENZY.

NEW YORK, Aug. 8.—The mysterious disappearance of Lillie Koenig, 15 years old, of No. 158 Christopher street, and the arraignment in court of Robert Musso, a bootblack, 36 years old, on the charge of having lured nine-year-old Beatrice Walters to the cellar of her home at No. 412 Third avenue, have served to stir the city anew.

Lillie Koenig disappeared on July 29, and, although a large force of detectives have been searching for her throughout the city since, no trace of her has been found and it is feared that her name will be added to the long list of victims of the crime wave now sweeping over New York.

Detectives are turning New York's Italian quarter topsy-turvy in their efforts to find the blackmailers and kidnappers they believe are holding Rocco Walardo's five-year-old daughter Dominica for ransom.

Coming in connection with the epidemic of assaults on women and children and the consequent panic caused by the warfare between the police and an organized band of Armenian extortionists and assassins, the latest renewal of Black Hand activity was driven the detective department fairly distracted.

Valardo is an Italian fruit dealer, a man of some wealth and a leader in the local Italian colony. Following a series of demands for money, he and his wife missed their child Tuesday forenoon. They looked for it without notifying the police until last night, when an unknown hand thrust a letter under their door, informing them that Dominica is a Black Hand captive and will be killed unless Valardo pays $2000 to a man who will call for the money before the end of the week.

A police cordon has been drawn about the neighborhood in the hope of capturing the emissary when he makes his appearance. So strong is the feeling among the Italians against the kidnappers that an arrest will almost certainly be followed by an attempt at lynching, and a strong force of detectives will be nearby to guard the prisoner if one falls into the hands of the police.

HAMMER DOWN STOCKS IN WAR ON HARRIMAN

PRICES DROP UNDER FIERCE ONSLAUGHT, BACKED, IT IS SAID, BY ROCKEFELLER.

NEW YORK, Aug. 8.—The war against E. H. Harriman which was temporarily abandoned has been taken up with renewed vigor in Wall street, and the demoralization in the stock market just now is one of its results.

There is no doubt that a combination of powerful financiers has been formed to wage war against Mr. Harriman and his intimate associates, H. H. Rogers, H. C. Frick and William Rockefeller. John D. Rockefeller himself is claimed as an ally by the enemies of Harriman.

The speculative public while not directly concerned in this fight is being forced to take account of it for the battle is upsetting the market. The attack begun yesterday was renewed to-day with vigor and Union Pacific was hammered down in the first few minutes of trading from 175⅛ to 127¼.

Southern Pacific was broken to 82½, a loss of 2½ points, and Amalgamated, which closed last night at 97, was broken to 74½. Other stocks that could offset the market were also attacked, one of the chief ones being Smelters, which was broken to 69¾, a loss of 3⅞ points in half an hour and a new low record.

Wall street says that Smelters is going on a 10 per cent. basis—investment basis.

Other stocks broken were Northern Pacific, Reading, Anaconda and Sloss-Sheffield.

The idea of the raiders seemed to be to attack anything that would yield. Their object seemed to be to unsettle the stock market to such an extent that the Harriman people cannot secure accommodations which they need from the banks in order to market their debentures.

TO DEPORT SLAYER.

PORTLAND, Me., Aug. 8.—Leonardo Cavaliere, the Italian who was arrested here on the charge of murdering Michele Dicapua in Italy, will probably be deported.

BIG LINER BREWSTER ON ROCKS IN HARBOR

UNITED FRUIT COMPANY STEAMER AGROUND AT NIX'S MATE.

The United Fruit Company's steamer, Brewster, is fast ashore on the rocks at Nix's Mate in the outer harbor.

Powerful tugs are to-day endeavoring to pull the Brewster into the harbor channel, where she went ashore at 10 o'clock last night while coming up the harbor.

Early to-day the Government tug Winnisimmet went down the harbor to aid the helpless liner. The fruit company says there are no passengers in the vessel.

Later the tug Scylla, with several large lighters, went down to the vessel to lighter her cargo of 35,000 bunches of bananas and to try to pull the big ship from the rocks.

Registered as German.

The Brewster is registered under the German flag and her crew is German. She was built in Copenhagen, Denmark, in 1903. She is owned by H. H. Schmidt of Hamburg, but has been chartered by the United Fruit Company ever since she has been in commission.

In the Winter of 1905, after a collision with a schooner, she went on the rocks off Swampscott in a dense fog.

She is 249 feet long, is 34 feet 6 inches in beam. She has a steel hull and is of 831 tons burden. She is propelled by powerful triple expansion engines. The vessel was bound here from Port Morant and San Antonio, Jamaica.

Captain H. Bodt, when seen to-day by a reporter of the BOSTON AMERICAN, said: "We went ashore last evening because the pilot mistook the light of the engineer of a dredging machine for the light of the gas buoy of Nix's Mate. I think the vessel will float when lighted. She has a hole abaft to starboard, her stern is high in the air and she is on a very bad bottom. We are pumping water into the port tanks so that she may be brought on to a level keel."

Second Mate Kleimark and a crew of three men rowed out to the Nix's Mate buoy to-day to see what the matter was with it. Their boat upset and the four men were picked up by some fishermen.

MOORISH TOWN WIPED OUT BY BOMBARDMENT

HUNDREDS SLAIN IN NAZAGAN UNDER THE FIERCE FIRE OF FRENCH CRUISER.

LONDON, Aug. 8.—Nazagan, Morocco has been practically destroyed by the bombardment of the French cruiser du Chayla, sent there to defend Europeans. Hundreds have been slain by the ships' fire. Many Hebrews were killed by Moors, however, before they could be given protection. This is the news received in a dispatch to the Central News from Tangier.

While the bombardment was in progress hundreds of Moors made a raid into the Jewish quarters.

Care was taken to avoid the various consulates during the bombardment, and they were not touched.

MRS. SAGE GIVES $50,000 TO Y. M. C. A.

NEW YORK, Aug. 8.—F. H. Woodward, secretary to President Peters of the Long Island Railroad, made the announcement to-day that Mrs. Sage had donated $50,000 for the erection of a new building for the Long Island Railroad employes branch of the Young Men's Christian Association.

WOMAN HURT IN LONG RUNAWAY

CATHANCE, Me., Aug. 8.—A high spirited horse last night ran away, carrying Mrs. I. C. Rundlett over three miles in his wild run. He was finally steered into a post, which brought him to a halt, but Mrs. Rundlett was thrown out and badly injured.

NOLAN ADMITS STABBING WIFE; HELD IN $5,000

Husband of Woman Dying from His Attack Doesn't Care What Is Done With Him.

SISTER FIGHTS HIS PLEA

While his weeping sister, Mrs. John Long, cried "Don't plead guilty, Dan, I'll get a lawyer for you," Daniel Nolan, aged thirty-eight years, of No. 329 Main street, Cambridgeport, to-day admitted his guilt before Judge Almy in the Cambridge District Court, when charged with attacking his wife, Mary, with a dangerous weapon. He was held in $5,000 until August 13. Mrs. Nolan was stabbed in seven places and is thought to be dying in the Cambridge Relief Hospital.

Nolan refused to change his plea, even when given the chance by Judge Almy, as he had previously declared to the officers who had arrested him that he didn't care what became of him if only his two daughters, Mary, ten years, and Margaret, nineteen months, were given good homes.

The wife who is thirty-two years of age, is unconscious. She has two wounds over the heart, two in her right side, one of which pierced the lung, one in her forehead, one under her chin and a long deep gash in the left arm. The surgeons think she cannot live.

The weapon used by Nolan was a huge pocket knife, the blade ground like that of a bowie knife.

Fast sinking into unconsciousness, Mrs. Nolan told her story to the officers in the ambulance as they were hurrying her to the hospital.

She said her husband had been away since last February. He came home last night and took some money her hard earned money from her.

Words followed, and she said Nolan lunged at her with the knife held wide open. As she struggled with him she managed to break away long enough to stagger to a window through which she saw Mrs. Mary Scanlon, a neighbor.

"My God," Mrs. Scanlon, he's struck me!" screamed the woman, who was by this time covered with blood.

Mrs. Scanlon, though terrified, had presence of mind enough to send her little daughter for a policeman.

Soon Patrolman William Rowe of Station 2 came on a run, and arrested Nolan, who made no resistance, secured the bloody knife and then called for an ambulance.

Mrs. Nolan told the police that since her husband, who is a machinists' helper when he works, left her, she had been working from morning to night in a restaurant as a dishwater to keep her children and herself from starvation. She said that they had buried four children, three girls and a boy.

CRANE STAYS AWAY FROM PARTY PICNIC

Senator Lodge Makes Speech at Big Outing at Nantasket To-day.

The Young Men's Republican Club of Dorchester set sail for Nantasket and Nantasket Point at 1:20 o'clock this afternoon to eat clams and lobsters and quaff and to bask in the presence of United States Senator Henry Cabot Lodge, Boss of the East. The Boss of the West was absent. Senator Crane contributed to the stack of "letters of regret."

Senator Lodge was down for the big speech of the day. He considered the troubles in the Democratic camp and pondered the customary Republican clean-up in November.

Mr. Lodge was linked arms a good deal of the afternoon with Postmaster General George von L. Meyer. Mr. von L. Meyer is declared to be nursing senatorial ambitions, of his own. A dispatch to-day from Washington declares that it is well known down there that von L. Meyer intends to take Lodge's seat who aLodge is done with it. Republicans of Nantasket to-day said that a polite invitation will never get Lodge out of his Senate seat. They pointed to the cases of Platt and Depew.

Herman Hormel of the City Committee, whom District Attorney John B. Moran excused for the day from the Grand Jury probe of the Common Council loan scandal, was in the busy throng which told everybody that there really is no foundation in fact for the story that Senator Lodge and Senator Crane have drifted apart. "They would have been here to-day," said Hormel, "if such a thing were possible."

The excursionists were sent to the Point by trolley and filed up on a steaming where dinner awaited the epicures with the corks. Lodge was the lion of the day. Governor Guild and Lieutenant-Governor Draper were also on the bill of fare.

'FRANKIE' WILL GO BACK TO OLD NEW HAMPSHIRE

Little "Frankie" Owens, who was last night returned to the Charden Street Home for the second time within three days, is going back to New Hampshire. The authorities have decided that all children born on a farm in his stubbornness, have discovered an aunt of the boy named Mrs. Riley of Dover, N. H. An effort will be made to get the boy to her. But in case he fails the boy will be turned over to the New Hampshire authorities.

"Frankie" Owens's career has been exciting since he was given to the Home. Portland in Dover, N. H., to be kept while his mother consulted with the authorities about taking care of him. His mother never came back, and "Frankie" came to Boston with Mrs. MacFarland. She took him out shopping one day, and "Frankie" got lost. He was found by the police and taken to Station 5 in South Boston.

Last Monday he was returned to Mrs. MacFarland, who had seen his picture in the papers. Last night Mrs. MacFarland brought him into the Charden Street Home and gave him up, saying that he was too restless, and that he "bowled" every time he could not do what he wanted to.

JAP STATESMAN SEES WAR WITH UNITED STATES

SEATTLE, Wash., Aug. 8.—Unless this country shows a disposition to give the Japanese the benefit of its instructions on the same basis as it treats all citizens coming within the "most favored nations" clause of treaties, war between Japan and the United States is inevitable, according to Baron S. Saijiri, member of the Japanese diet, prominent in commercial and financial circles in the Mikado's empire, and a worker in the Y. M. C. A. and other religious movements. He has arrived here.

Saijiri gives this opinion in a letter written to one of his countrymen in this city. In his letter the baron says it is useless to try to disguise the situation and all the diplomatic explanations in the world will not suffice to satisfy the Japanese when their honor is attacked. When they are deprived of their rights in the United States rough they feel their high order of civilization entitle them.

Saijiri is now playing at the Hotel Rudolph at Atlantic City.

SUES WIFE OF VIOLINIST RIGO FOR $250,000

By Boston American Leased Wire.

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., Aug. 8.—In a $250,000 suit for slander brought by Mrs. Isabella J. Martin of New York, against Mrs. Catherine Rigo, formerly Mrs. Casper Emerson of this city, who two years ago eloped with Remenyi de Princess De Chimay, her own cousin, in the affections of Janesi Rigo, another sensational chapter in the romantic career has begun.

Mrs. Martin makes the most remarkable assertion that it is not the former Mrs. Emerson who is with the violinist, but the Princess De Chimay herself incognito.

Mrs. Rigo contends that she is virtually a prisoner at the Princess Hotel, Atlantic City, because of her fear of Mrs. Martin, who, she says, has threatened her with violence and has employed detectives to shadow her.

CHIEF HAZEN SECURES NEW CLUE TO RIPPER

SAYS CRATE IN WHICH KATIE TRITSCHLER WAS FOUND MAY BE MYSTERY KEY.

By Boston American Leased Wire.

NEW YORK, Aug. 8.—William P. Hazen, former chief of the United States Secret Service, who is hunting for the ripper who has terrorized New York City, today gives the third report of his investigations in the Katie Tritschler case. His theory that the girl was killed by someone who knew her well, and who was familiar with the scene of the tragedy, has been accepted by the police. Chief Hazen now is hunting for the man who stole the keys to the cellar in which the body was found.

By William P. Hazen,
Former Chief of the United States Secret Service.

Further evidence to substantiate the fact that the murder of eight-year-old Katie Tritschler was planned with cunning and deliberation was found in my third day's investigation of the case for the Evening Journal.

Until established the condition of the door to the cellar of the house where the child's body was found, the fact was accepted by the police that access to the place could be gained by a person not acquainted with the scene.

But there is no doubt of the story told by Daniel Hurtneman, caretaker of the house. Examined at length by detectives from the precinct and the detective bureau, the janitor repeated the story as he first told it to me. After several hours the police came to the conclusion that the man who committed the crime must have been familiar with the premises, and renewed their search for the nineteenth Frank Joseph, described by Dora Mismer, the woman who is detained as a witness at the order of Coroner Harburger.

The Crate a Clue.

The box or vegetable crate on which the body of the child was found bears marks which should have been investigated before this. It may be that this crate was picked up by any of the families living in the house and stored in the cellar to be used as firewood during the Winter.

But questioning of the tenants fail to establish this fact. None of the women in the house was able to throw any light on the subject when examined by the police, and it is safe to suppose that the crate might have been taken to the cellar by the murderer.

The only excuse for taking the crate to the cellar can be found in the supposition that the child's body was carried in it. Against this belief is the declaration of the physician who performed the autopsy that none of the girl's bones were fractured. It is conceivable to the police that it would have been impossible to place the body in the box without breaking some of the bones.

The crate is of the sort used to transport cabbage or cantaloupes. It is marked as follows:

"H. And A. Co., 74 Betty Hill."

The box is eleven and a half inches long and eighteen inches deep.

This fact might have been the property of any of the scores of merchants who display vegetables or fruit from pushcarts on First Avenue. The men are devoted to their business of selling their goods—absolutely engaged, in fact, that it would be possible for a person to approach a wagon and take a crate in which the goods are delivered to them.

It is the custom of these men, I found, to use the boxes of this sort for firewood, and the loss of even such a box would be remembered by any of them. As far as I could learn no effort has been made by the police to canvass these men.

While at this time it may not appear of vital importance to learn the history of this crate—to find out where it came from and how long before the disappearance of the child it may have been carried into the cellar—I will devote time to investigate the matter fully.

A Direct Theory.

The further I go in the investigation, the more fully I become convinced that the person who murdered the child was entirely familiar with the building in which it occurred.

The cellar is so built that not a ray of light enters it. An ideal place for a crime such as was perpetrated upon the innocent child.

On the side of the cellar across from the stairs is an old-fashioned fireplace, used, perhaps, a score of years ago, when the building was occupied by but one family. The flue from this grate is unconstructed that even to-day a fire might be built on the stone flagging of the cellar.

To determine whether other crimes similar to this had been committed in the dark recesses of this den, and evidence destroyed by burning, I made another examination of this fireplace. I am of the opinion at this time that the fireplace has not been used for years. There is nothing in the refuse pile in the old-time grate to show evidence of recent use.

The fact of the loss of the key to the padlock on the cellar door convinced me that one familiar with the house lured the child to her death.

WOMEN MOB MEN IN NEW YORK STREETS

NEW YORK, Aug. 8.—Like lionesses at bay, in defence of their young, the women of New York, in face of the great crime wave, have become leaders of furious would-be lynching mobs. Twice within twenty-four hours well dressed women of good families have fought with savage ferocity to kill attackers of little girls. These women, roused by outrage and driven threatening their loved ones, have battled desperately with the police. The blue coats have been forced to use their clubs and drawn revolvers to protect wretches in their custody from the mad wrath of women rioters. There were many girl attacks on women and children to-day, and new threats to frightful list of crimes will grow to-morrow. Armed civilians are patrolling many streets and the spirit of mob violence grows.

There have been 216 attacks on women and girls in Greater New York since May 4 and only eight convictions. The worst of these three months is without parallel in the history of the city. Each day adds to the list of witnesses, growing eager on the part of the public. The figures given are for cases reported to the police. Undoubtedly there are scores of other affairs in which those attacked kept the facts secret in order to avoid publicity.

Attacks His Little Niece.

In view of the unusual conditions, Acting Police Commissioner O'Keefe, who is in charge while Commissioner Bingham is on his vacation, declares that any citizen has a right to make an arrest when a child or woman is attacked.

Former Secret Service Chief William P. Hazen, who has been engaged by the Evening Journal to run down the ripper, has discovered new evidence in the Tritschler case, and the police are accepting his belief regarding the method of the crime and the identity of its perpetrator.

Of the many new cases, the most flagrant is that of William Brown, charged with attacking his little niece in Brooklyn. He is twenty-nine years old and lives at No. 21 Baltic street. He was locked up in the Amity street police station after a crowd of women, headed by his sister, the victim's mother, had almost killed him.

Mrs. Helen Cayden, who resides in the apartment with her brother, left the house to go to a store, leaving Katie, seven years old, and Helen, aged five, at home.

Wman Defends Child.

With indomitable pluck, Miss May Kehoe, of No. 426 East Seventieth street, battled with a man who attempted to attack a little girl and held him until the police arrived.

Nine men have been held by Magistrate Healy in the Flushing Court, charged with attempted attacks upon women. All were arrested within a radius of two miles of the scene of the Stadnicki murder.

Held prisoner by two men for more than a day and terribly abused, Isabelle Emley, seventeen years old, of No. 420 East Seventieth street, staggered into the German Hospital and fell fainting in the arms of a nurse. Later she said that while walking in Mulberry street in search of work she was seized, dragged into a hallway and attacked. After that she was held prisoner and subjected to other indignities. Finally the men threw her out of the house.

2 CONTEST FOR TEAMSTER HEAD

With two sessions to-day at 9 and 1:30, behind closed doors, the convention of the International Brotherhood of Teamsters is rapidly clearing up its work. To-morrow will be given up to the election of officers. For the position of president the rivalry is waxing very warm between Cornelius P. Shea, the present head of the Brotherhood, and Daniel J. Tobin. Shea's friends claim two-thirds of the delegates favor his re-election, their belief being based on 3 caucus showing.

To-night the convention dinner will be eaten at Revere Beach.

In the course of his report, President Shea makes a number of recommendations, including one that the efforts of the members be devoted to the upbuilding of a stronger organization to resist the growth of the employers organization. He also expressed his approval of a plan for a death benefit.

WINS TEACHER, AS HIS BRIDE

Timothy Powell, truant officer for the city of Malden, and Miss M. A. Clark, one of the prettiest teachers of the Centre Grammar School, Malden, were married in that city last night by Rev. Richard Nagle, pastor of the Church of the Immaculate Conception. The best man was Joseph A. Cosgrove, and Miss Mary Clara, of Peabody, a sister of the bride, was bridesmaid.

The bride came to Malden from Peabody three or four years ago and has since taught the fifth grade in the Centre Grammar School. She and Mr. Powell, whose friends have looked upon him as a confirmed bachelor, met during performances of school work.

GIRL PAINTING CHURCH WANTS HOUSE JOBS

Miss Stearns, Who Aids Malden Pastor, Thinks She Would Like the Business.

STARTS ON HER HOME NEXT

Miss Nettie Stearns of No. 9 Shawmut street, Malden, after an afternoon spent helping the Rev. John C. Norberry paint the Pentecostal Mission Church, announced to-day that she believed she would take up house painting as a permanent vocation.

"I am fascinated with the work," Miss Stearns told a BOSTON AMERICAN reporter to-day, "and after I get through helping Mr. Norberry I am going to start on my own home.

"It seems to me that painting is a work that can be well done by women. I don't see why more women don't take it up. For myself I am satisfied with what I have done that I am going to keep at it and see what I can do.

"How did I come to do the work on the church? Well, that was simply the inspiration of the moment. I happened along by the church yesterday afternoon and watched Pastor Norberry and those who are helping him at work.

"There happened to be a paint pot and a brush lying idle, and I picked them up and started on a blind. I kept it up, and with few suggestions from Mr. Norberry I found that I could do quite a bit.

"Well, after a few minutes I stopped work, came home, changed my clothes, put on an old red wrapper and apron and went back to work. I was just delighted with the job, especially when I could get up on a ladder and make a dab here and there.

"The results were satisfying to me. I wonder why women don't take up the work. They ought to make better painters than men because they are more accurate, patient and painstaking. Now that I have started I am going to keep it up and already I am looking about the house here to see what needs to be done.

"Yes, I think these blinds should be touched up. Guess I will start on them next week."

Pastor Norbery had another woman assistant, Mrs. Martha Lafir of No. 153 Bradford street, Everett, came along, volunteered and was accepted for blind work. The two women were objects of much favorable comment as they gracefully wielded the paint brush.

ASKS $30 FOR CORN TOOMEY'S COW ROSIE ATE

Dominic Capon of Newton says $2 won't pay for the corn that Rosie, the cow, trampled under foot, to say nothing of the succulent young ears that she ate.

The Newton police fix the value at $2 maximum at two bucks. Double says thirty. Mike doesn't think the police have a fine sense of corn values. And Rosie isn't saying anything at all.

The whole agrarian trouble arises from Rosie getting loose from her stall in Mike's barn and wandering into Dominic's corn field. Like any well regulated cow, Rosie has a discriminating taste for corn. She ate heartily of Dominic's ears—ears of corn.

Dominic responded Rosie and kept her by his barn, reselling her next morning for less green corn. Mike managed to milk Rosie during this time, and Dominic finally told Mike to take Rosie back to the barn, as she was losing out in the affair.

Dominic didn't say any more about Rosie's board, but he did tell Mike that the damaged corn should be paid for—about $30, said Dominic.

The police, to Dominic's astonished wrath, allowed that $2 was the corn damage. Dominic is wondering how he is to get his $30.

CYCLONE IN MAINE RAZES GREAT TREES

RANGELEY LAKES, Me., Aug. 8.—The terrific wind storm which amounted to a cyclone which has been raging in the woods here has wrought fearful devastation. Huge trees, four feet in diameter and seventy-five feet high, were swept down in windrows, some falling with a crash on to the roofs of the camps along the shore, and in some places injuring the inmates. A canoe on Rangeley Lake was lifted bodily out of the water with its occupants and the young man was obliged to swim for the shore, which he reached after a hard struggle. Hundreds of acres trees were levelled.

HURT IN TILT OVER PHOTOS.

Picture of Marguerite E. Stone. Like one taken by Killeen.

FIGHT FINE FOR DRAGGING GIRL IN ROAD

Killeen Appeals in Case Arising Over Possession of Miss Stone's Photographs.

GIRL LEFT UNCONSCIOUS

Denying that he grabbed Miss Marguerite E. Stone by the wrists and dragged her fifty feet in the roadway in an argument over the possession of two photographs of the young woman, John H. Killeen, a publisher, has appealed from the judgment rendered against him in the Municipal Court and a fine of $25 imposed on him by Judge Wentworth.

Killeen admits having the photographs which Miss Stone was seeking. He had told her he thought he was paying her a compliment in taking them. Miss Stone, however, looks at the matter in a very different light.

Studies at Conservatory.

Miss Stone is a petite blonde. Her home is in Springfield, O. She is lodging at No. 535 Massachusetts avenue to be near the New England Conservatory of Music, where she is studying. Killeen lives at No. 747 Tremont street, and according to Miss Stone's statement had called at her home several times. Miss Stone's story is:

"On July 26 Mr. Killeen called at the home. I had some new photographs. He took two of them without my assenting to it at the time. I telephoned him to return them. He told me he thought he could be excused this by making them. I told him to keep his compliments and return the photographs.

"What might he drove to the house in a runabout. I saw the pictures sticking out under the cushion. I reached for them. As I did so he grabbed my wrist with his right hand with such force that his fingers dug into the flesh and at the same time he struck his horse. When the horse started he continued to hold my wrist.

Dragged Fifty Feet.

"I was dragged fifty feet and left unconscious. Friends carried me to my apartment. Dr. William H. Thayer, Jr., found my knees, side and elbow terribly scraped and a severe contusion on my wrist. I was confined to my room a week."

In court Killeen said he sought to prevent Miss Stone from taking some advertising blanks from his runabout. He said he freed her hand when he drove away. He confessed, however, to looking back and meeting Miss Stone sprawling on the ground without returning to her assistance.

Friday Three-Hour Sales

A DIFFERENCE. It is no advantage to the customer to buy poor goods at low prices. A bargain means goods of a given quality purchased at a price below the prevailing price of the same quality. For 35 years our firm name has been synonymous with low prices on good merchandise, and in nothing is this more apparent than in the Three-Hour Sales.

HOSTILE BOARD BARS TRUTH IN PHONE PROBE

Atty. Whitman Sees No Hope of Checking Corrupt Practices.

FORCED TO DROP INQUIRY

Attorney Edmund A. Whitman, who conducted the investigation of the New England Telephone and Telegraph Company, on the petition of the Boston Post, for lower telephone rates, announced today that his reason for abruptly terminating the inquiry was because he believed the attitude of the Massachusetts Highway Commission to be such that no evidence that would help the investigation could be brought out.

"It seemed clear from the expressed attitude of the commission," says Mr. Whitman in his report, "that no revision of rates is to be had that will satisfy the subscribers, as based upon any adequate investigation of the company's affairs, and there can be no assurance that the practices of the company's officers in corruptly influencing other public officials will be permanently discontinued."

That "Public" Investigation.

The attorney shows how the Highway Commission at the outset wanted to have a "public" investigation by appointing a committee of business men in which the telephone company should have a say in the selections.

"The outcast for the company did, however, with the apparent assent of the commission, described the proposed committee as one 'representing the public and in that way it becomes a public investigation because the public is represented.'

"This form of investigation had previously been proposed to your counsel by the telephone company and had been declined.

Mr. Whitman shows that while two of the best known telephone experts were where they could have been easily secured by the commission for examination of the company's books, they chose to secure two employes of Stone & Webster.

Work of "Experts."

It is pointed out that in the close relations existing between Stone & Webster and Kidder, Peabody & Co., financial agents of the telephone company, it was reasonable to expect that no investigation by them, however thorough, would be calculated to injure the company.

When Mr. Whitman protested that Superintendent Dresser's statement that the "phantom ishor" would form only 10 per cent. of the cost of his department could be shown to be too low in figure, the commission said:

"I think the commission will be perfectly willing to take his (Dresser's) word for it."

Fail to Probe Old Methods.

Previously the commission had said, after ruling that the payrolls would not assist them and returning them to the company:

"It is not the intention of the commission to investigate the payrolls at all, but simply to verify the figures which Mr. Dresser has made."

Mr. Whitman says:

"When, therefore, the commission ruled that all evidence not directly pertinent to rates or service was immaterial, and that they would not inquire into the methods of the company in corruptly influencing legislators or the action of public bodies charged with the granting of public franchises to this company, and that they were not investigating the company as a whole, it seemed the duty of your counsel to decline to continue with the inquiry without further instructions."

BIG FIRE RAGING IN BALTIMORE

BALTIMORE, Md., Aug. 8.—Fire broke out in the grain elevator of the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad early today. The grain elevator is thought to be doomed, and the fire threatens to spread to surrounding property.

Following the first general alarm, the "four taps" was sounded, bringing to the scene thirty-five engines and fifteen truck companies.

The elevator structure is a roaring furnace, tongues of flame leaping high into the air.

At 8.50 o'clock the roof of the elevator crashed in, sending huge sparks in every direction. Hope of saving the elevator has now been abandoned.

PRIZE AWARDS STIR FIRE VETS

Complaint comes from the Worcester Veteran Firemen that a grave injustice was done them by the judges at the Old Home Week muster on the Common. Through some mistake, the Worcester veterans constructed their machine got on the platform and made a display of fine fancy play, which was not the kind of work the judges should have been made by the Gardner veterans, in the excitement some of the Gardner men took hold of the Worcester hub's hose. As a result the Worcester vets got no recognition for their play.

"The prizes have all been paid," said John Whitman, of the Old Home Week committee, "and I don't see what can be done about it at this late date."

High Priestess of Theosophy Leaves Trail of Gold As She Visits Childhood Home and Plans Big School

Mrs. Katherine Tingley Is Handsome and Fascinating at the Age of 55.

By Louis P. Weadock.

With a satchel filled with $20 and $50 and $100 bills Katherine Tingley is in Boston today. She came from her birthplace at Newburyport where she left a trail of yellow money behind her. As the "Purple Mother" of the Universal Brotherhood and Theosophical Society Mrs. Tingley is on her way to Europe, there to establish schools and academies which are to be affiliated with the $30,000,000 home of the theosophists at Point Loma, Cal.

She announced today that she has begun work upon the plans for a new and magnificent establishment to be built at the Laurels upon the banks of the Merrimack River, a few miles from Newburyport.

While she was staying at the Wolfe Tavern in her native town yesterday she drove in an automobile to the beautiful cliff which overlooks the river near the first suspension bridge built in America, and there she and the few friends with her rested and lunched under the great pine tree under which as a girl she dreamed the dreams about theosophy and world evolution which have since come true.

As she stood under the tree she was photographed by one of the men who in Newburyport during the Civil War had played in amateur theatricals with her in "The Drummer Boy" and "The Blue and the Gray," dramas which were popular in those days.

Mrs. Tingley talked to-day about her work, a work to which Former Secretary of the Treasury Lyman J. Gage, A. G. Spalding, the millionaire sporting goods manufacturer, E. A. Nerenhimer, P. M. Pierce and other Eastern millionaires have given all their allegiance and much of their money.

Youthful at Fifty-five.

She looks remarkably well. Although it is her firm belief that she has existed for thousands of years in one form or another the fifty-five years during which it can be proved that she has lived on this earth have dealt lightly with her.

Her fine brown eye shone to-day as she described her ideals and her plans of life. She added her narrative by ample and graceful gestures of which might have seemed familiar to older residents of Newburyport who remember her in her younger ne-theosophical days.

She smiled upon everybody. A few of the old residents that had heard that too, two persons believed their own eyes Tingley to be the reincarnation of Madame Blavatsky had a little acrimony yesterday in coming over to shake hands. They need not have worried. Mrs. Tingley was glad to see them all.

To one white haired old gentleman who called she said:

"Time does fly, doesn't it? I remember you when you were very young and very handsome."

The old gentleman bowed low.

"You have always been handsome," he said.

Indeed there is a sparkle in the Tingley eye and an animation in the Tingley manners that are fascinating in themselves. In Newburyport they remember Katherine Tingley as a "very lovely girl-lively and beautiful."

"All Should Be Happy."

"All of us should be happy," she said. "It is because of fear that we are not. We fear this thing and that thing and the other thing. I say 'we' but I do not mean we theosophists. With us there is no fear. We look forward to other existences. We know that life is governed by law and not by sentiment and we strive to obey those laws that we may be happy. Our philosophy teaches us hope and optimism above everything else."

To tell the truth Newburyport does not seem to understand Katherine Tingley. Her father who used to be the town marshal there was well known. His father also had a very large circle of acquaintance. But when Katherine was a child she spent so much time in the woods talking to the trees that it was thought best to send her to a convent in Quebec, there to be talked to by teachers.

"Still I am glad to get back to the dear old town," she said yesterday as she sat in the old colonial parlor at the Wolfe Tavern. I remember that when I was a child I used to go out to that beautiful bend in the Merrimack river and stretch myself upon the soft green grass lie there for hours and dream. The ideas that came to me in those long golden afternoon demanded expression. But where was an audience?

Talked to Pine Sticks.

"I made one. I used to stick pieces of wood into the ground under the old pine tree and talk to those pieces of wood. I talked to the trees and the birds and after many years and many trials I came to talk to men and women and children and they understood."

One of the young women who "understood" is the Honorable Nan Herbert, sister of Lord Lucas of the English House of Lords. She is one of Mrs. Tingley's travelling companions. Mrs. Tingley talked to Miss Herbert—who has cool gray eyes, a fine profile and an abundance of the grande manner—sat in the room and wrote letters. She is so much in love with Mrs. Tingley's propounds that she has given a fine estate in England to the cause.

Visiting her rich friends took with her bejewelled fingers Mrs. Tingley, it should be said en passant, has no prejudices against diamonds, the Purple Mother continued.

"The school that I intend to build on the river here," she said, "will be a good thing for Newburyport, but it will be a magnificent thing for those that will enter it. We welcome all men and women who have ideals. With no angle precision for living is made. Workers with their brains never have to distress themselves about the means of living. These means are provided. We do not worship a single God, but we dwell together in brotherhood and harmony, and we are optimists, every last one of us."

An Optimistic "Bell Hop."

One Cornelius Harrigan, able bellboy at the Wolfe Tavern, became an optimist last night when Mrs. Tingley gave him for a telegraph blank and gave him $5 for getting it.

With the $5 which he had received in return for the telegraph blank Cornelius Harrigan might have been observed in the lobby eliminating a few of his outstanding obligations to other members of his craft.

Mrs. Tingley cast her fine eye in his direction.

"It seems to me," she said, "that our establishment to be built near here will prosper even more than the one at Point Loma. Here we will be among friends. There are many theosophists in New England and we are growing here. We will be situated nearer Newburyport than in California we are to San Diego. And that we will build upon the site that I have loved all my life and longed for will be a powerful influence.

Rich with Poetic Memories.

"'Whittier immortalized the Laurels, which is that beautiful spot near the turn in the river. Poets have lived upon its banks. The river and the trees combine to form one of the most lovely and enchanting prospects that I have seen in my life. I have been twice around the world, and I have seen many countries, and I know that there is no site that offers the advantages that this site does which I say to-day."

"The Raja Yoga schools are filled with children who are happier in them than they could be anywhere else," Mrs. Tingley said.

The extreme ease and simplicity with which Mrs. Tingley tossed about money of value prompted a question as to the source of supply.

"We have no solicitors," she answered. "We have no agents. We do no advertising. Men and women who want the peace that comes from life in the Brotherhood come to us. Many of them have money. All of them can work. We help one another. Each has enough and to spare and there is no waste. We believe in giving for what we get and in paying well for it. We owe no one and we are never worried by debt. Debt is a source of great fear to us many. We eliminate it.

At Point Loma great emphasis is laid upon the good sense the teachings of theosophy do the children.

Mrs. Tingley had an admirable exhibit with her.

Pretty Child Disciple.

This was twelve-year-old Margaret Hanson, a brown eyed miss with rosy cheeks and cream complexion and two fluxen curls hanging down her back.

"Tell the gentlemen who you are," said Mrs. Tingley, dallying with a pincenez which was encrusted with jewels.

"I am the special correspondent of the Universal Brotherhood Crusade," said small Miss Hanson promptly.

"Oh, don't say 'crusade,' pleaded Mrs. Tingley, "that sounds so much like Carrie Nation."

"Oh it does," said the child and they both laughed together.

The two treated each other as equals and many little girls of twelve could be pretty proud of themselves when they are well mannered and well informed as little Margaret.

During Mrs. Tingley's trip through England, Ireland, France, Spain, Sweden, Denmark and Germany, the little girl is to write back to Point Loma her impressions of all of the countries she sees.

"I have often said that if a life gets a very long start of the truth there is no chance of the truth catching up. This is the reason that I make it a rule not to be interviewed. So much that is cruel and unjust has been said about my work that I have felt that it is useless to contradict any one of the many lies.

"It has been said, for instance, that I teach that we are reincarnated in the forms of animals. That is nonsense, absolutely. I believe there are some human beings who would make better animals than humans.

On Re-Incarnations.

"We believe and we teach that life is a series of existences, that we go on and on from one life to another, growing constantly and gaining constantly.

"Prejudice and ignorance have not prevailed against us, and I think they never will."

Mrs. Tingley's husband, who is in New York arranging for the ocean transportation, will join his wife in that city Saturday. After many months abroad, Mrs. Tingley will return to New England, where she will lecture and when work upon the new home of the theosophists on the banks of the Merrimack River will begin in earnest.

This photograph, taken especially for the Boston American at the great pine tree at Newburyport, where Mrs. Tingley first dreamed out the principles of theosophy, shows from left to right Mrs. Walter Hanson, directress of the Raja Yoga day school at San Diego, Cal., with her twelve-year-old daughter, Margaret, Mrs. Tingley's protege. Standing from left to right are the Honorable Miss Herbert of England, directress of the Raja Yoga Academy, Santiago de Cuba, Mrs. Katherine Tingley and Mrs. Jeanette Casey of Newton, Mrs. Tingley's guest.

TRADE INJURED BY HOME WEEK, SAY MERCHANTS

Several Houses Report Much Better Business Done This Week

ONLY SMALLWARES SOLD

The consensus of opinion seems to be that Old Home Week, in its immediate effect on local trade, was a "frost," says the Boston News Bureau. Several dealers have expressed themselves very emphatically that it hindered trade more than it helped it. The people came in to see the sights, and not to trade. Several houses report much better business the first part of this week.

A notable exception to the general trend of opinion is that expressed by Alexander McGregor of the Houghton, Dutton Company, who says: "Old Home Week was not merely a matter of dollars and cents, but was for the purpose in the main of advertising Boston, and in that respect was a success. We went at it in that spirit, and with the idea of helping the Mayor accomplish that result, but to our surprise our business increased over the corresponding week a year ago."

An official of the R. H. White Company said:

"The future effects of Old Home Week is not a matter of immediate question with us in that it is bound to advertise the city in such a way that we shall reap a harvest. The immediate effects, however, were disastrous.

The representative jewelry houses are emphatic in their condemnation of Old Home Week. Since all are large concerns, however, did rather large business in small wares, in which there was little profit.

The festivities called the furniture business.

One merchant remarked:

"Old Home Week reminded me of a remark I overheard during a convention once held in this city, to the effect that one of the visitors came with a clean shirt and a $2 bill, and never changed either during his entire stay."

The normal retail trade this Summer shows an increase of about 20 per cent; in the best furniture houses; the jewelry concerns are doing a normal business, and the department stores are making large gains over last Summer's record.

Many leading merchants prophesy a heavy Autumn trade, and can see no signs of a depression.

"PEACEMAKER" HELD AS SLAYER

NEW YORK, Aug. 8.—Edward Mulvaney, twenty-three, was arraigned in Brooklyn today on the charge of killing the father of his fiancee, as the result of a family quarrel in which he undertook to act as peacemaker.

Mulvaney, who is an athlete, was calling upon Miss Scalander, daughter of Robert Scalander, a contractor, when the father returned and became engaged in a quarrel with his wife and son.

The young man, who was in the parlor, rushed out and tried to separate the father and son. The father turned upon him and in the fight that followed the elder struck his intended father-in-law in the face, knocking him down. As he fell his head struck heavily and death resulted early today.

Undaunted by Narrow Escape from Death, Daring Cyclist Thrills Paragon Crowds with Ride for Life

Inclined plane down which Miss Knowlton spins for her plunge in the pool, and the daring cyclist at the moment of starting.

Sadie Knowlton's Perilous Feat May Be Seen Free on Sunday American Tickets.

Down a hundred-foot incline, to be tossed back in the air fifty feet, disentangling herself from the bicycle and dropping into a pool of water ten feet deep is the twice-daily schedule of the wonderful Sadie Knowlton at Paragon Park.

A Boston girl, she has in the last few seasons startled the big Summer parks of Europe and America with wonderful feats, but this one excels them all. At her opening act Monday afternoon Sadie Knowlton fell in the pool but missed the concrete edge by only two feet. Unharmed she continues and is one of the great free features at the Electric City by the Sea.

Manager Dodge tried to cancel the contract with Sadie Knowlton after seeing the bicycle structure built, but now agrees that the girl knows what she is about. This is a part of the free exhibit for SUNDAY AMERICAN free ticket holders at Paragon Park next week. The coupon attractions amount to forty cents, including admission at the gate, to open air shows, a ride in the Mines, a visit to Creation and the best seats in the house at the Theatre Comique.

HERE'S A BEEF TRUST MAN FOR COUNCILLOR JOB

Agent Glidden Now Rivals Cox, Also Labor Foe, For Place on Staff.

BOOMED AT BANQUET.

Republicans in the fourth councilor district declared today that the candidacy of Walter S. Glidden against Councillor Alfred H. Cox had undeniably received new impetus from last night's banquet of Republican workers in Revere. There the charge was renewed that Councillor Cox has "had enough," that the customary two years in the Governor's Council had been given to him and that he had twice said publicly, last year, that he would not ask to go again.

The State organization is apparently keeping hands off, having nothing to worry about. While Councillor Cox is of the Atlantic Works in East Boston, and while he is on the National Manufacturers' Committee chosen to raise $1,500,000 for a "defense" fund against organized labor, Mr. Glidden, the machine feels, is not without his merits. Glidden represents the Beef Trust in the Somerville district.

The banqueters accused Cox of trying to establish a three-term precedent.

The chairman of the councilor district committee, John H. Campbell of East Boston, had this story:

"At a meeting in Young's Hotel last Summer Mr. Cox said distinctly that after we gave him the customary second term he would not be a candidate for the place this year. He repeated this statement in public at a convention which nominated him."

Twenty-three of the twenty-five members of Revere's Republican town committee are at the banquet. The two others were heard from by letter. As a "committee" they take no part in the Glidden-Cox row. "But as individuals," said Secretary Harold Titus, "we favor Mr. Glidden."

MARY COFFIN NOT ENGAGED TO BRUSCH

The BOSTON AMERICAN is able to state authoritatively to-day that the report published in some of the newspapers that Miss Mary Coffin, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles P. Coffin of Ivy street, Brookline, is engaged to Edward Brusch, a well-known New York banker and clubman, is untrue.

Mrs. Coffin to-day sent the AMERICAN this telegram from Windsor, Vt.: "Contradict immediately false report of Miss Mary Coffin's engagement to Mr. Brusch, of whom she has never heard."

Miss Coffin is a Vincent Club girl and one of the prettiest in the Back Bay and Brookline social sets. She has been a leader in the large coterie of girls who ride, drive, play golf and tennis and are devoted to out-door sports.

When the reports of her engagement to Mr. Brusch were printed she was with her mother at the beautiful family Summer home at Windsor.

MERCY! NOW COMES BOLD CORSET TRUST

WASHINGTON, Aug. 8.—The women of America are to be given a bitter lesson at last in modern business methods. They are to be squeezed by the Corset Trust.

Hitherto they have been squeezed—though many deny it indignantly—by the corsets themselves. But now the Octopus Corset Trust has both the corsets and the wearers in its vise-like grip, and corsets will soon be higher—in price at least.

There are four great concerns in the country that sell about 200,000,000 corsets per year. This large number, by the way, gives rise to suspicion that men help out in the consumption.

These four firms, according to report, have entered into informal agreement to boost prices. They have no written contract, such as would get them tangled in the law. They know better than that.

Imagine the women of the land hearing that the Corset Trust had been organized and was to be punished. The fine just Judge Landis imposed on Standard Oil would be small compared with the punishment the women would want inflicted. Probably they would appeal to have the trust magnates put into their own stocks and laced to a lingering death.

It is difficult to obtain any information at the Department of Justice concerning the supposed Corset Trust. All officials blush furiously when interviewed and say they don't know anything about corsets.

It is expected that a ruling may be sent from the White House on this burning question.

ROB POSTOFFICE FOR THIRD TIME

MENDON, Aug. 8.—For the third time within a year the postoffice here has been robbed. The postoffice, general store and tenement above, in the centre of the village, was broken into and several hundred dollars' worth of stamps, money, silverware and jewelry were taken.

SOMETHING NEVER SEEN BEFORE

At the Woodbury Institute this week you may see and talk with a lady who has had the lines and wrinkles removed from one-half the face, leaving the other side to show all the wrinkled and flabby skin that formerly covered the entire face. Try to realize this startling fact. One side of her face shows all the traces of age—the other side shows all the smooth brightness of girlhood.

It is done without electricity, without tedious massage and without cutting or the use of any surgical instrument. It is done by nourishing, strengthening and building up the weakened and relaxed underlying muscles and by reviving the action of the corium or true skin, thus restoring a youthful facial contour and a bright girlish complexion. No matter how deep or how many your wrinkles may be—no matter how dead or sallow your skin may be—the famous Woodbury Method changes its texture and leaves it clear, smooth and velvety. Our methods are based upon scientific principles and are entirely painless. Whether you call or write, your inquiry will be treated with strict professional confidence, and every question will be answered without placing you under the slightest obligation.

SALARY RAISE FOR MOLDERS' UNION CHIEFS

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 8.—The Iron Moulders, in convention here, have advanced the salaries of their officers. The president is to get $2,100 a year instead of $1,800; the secretary $1,600 instead of $1,400, and the financier's salary is increased from $1,300 to $1,600 a year. The treasurer's salary, which has been $900, is to be $1,100, and each of the vice-presidents was given an advance of $100 a year, which makes the salary of the first vice-president $1,000 and the second, third, fourth and fifth vice-presidents, $1,400 each.

The office of assistant financier, which was created during the past year, was made permanent and the salary fixed at $1,200 a year.

The convention discussed at length the question of organization in various parts of the country and it was decided to appoint organizers for territory in which the organization is not as strong as it should be.

One of the most important acts of the convention has been a decision to make it possible for members of the Association of Iron Moulders of Scotland to become connected with the American organization on their arrival in this country by depositing their Scottish membership cards with the secretary of the American organization. A card in the American organization, if they are in good standing in Scotland, will cost them nothing.

Any members of the Scotch order who come to this country and whose application of the American association will be immediately expedited.

BOSTON LINE TO HAMBURG NOW CERTAIN

Cable dispatches to the BOSTON AMERICAN declare that the proposed steamship passenger and freight line between Hamburg and Boston is an assured fact, although the details are not yet ready for publication.

At the office of the company on State street an official of the line said to-day that it would be impossible at present for the company to put on such a cabin as the Graf Waldersee, these being 12,000-ton ships, as was at first planned, owing to the freight conditions here. It is impossible for the steamship companies to get freight enough here to fill their vessels.

The new service will be started with vessels of the Sylvia class, the Ilsenia and the Pisa, which are 7,000 ton vessels, and carry steerage passengers only, having accommodations for from 1,200 to 1,500 each. This will make an enormous increase in the steerage traffic through Boston, as it will give this port its only steerage continental line.

It is a great disappointment, however, to the steerage company that such big ships as the Graf Waldersee and the Pisa, which correspond to the Lycia of the Cunard line and the Cymric of the White Star line, should be kept out of Boston merely because the freight accommodations here are so poor.

Albrecht von Schroder, the Boston agent of the Hamburg-American line, is now in Germany, and will return here on September 4, when full details of the new service will be known.

STRAINE BAILED LEAVES PRISON

Robert F. Straine, clubman, promoter and former resident of Marlboro street, who faces trial early in September on the charge of attempting to kidnap his pretty daughter, Dorothy, on the night of her graduation from a "prep" school at Wellesley, has at last secured bail, and was released from the Salem jail to-day. Straine will immediately go to Dedham and go through the necessary formalities for his release from that place. James F. Pickett, a prominent Essex County man, has furnished the necessary $4,000 to secure Straine's release.

$325 in Glittering Gold for Seekers Next Sunday

Then it's he for another great gold hunt!

It will be held in Paragon Park and on the shining sands of Nantasket next Sunday.

Look what's here:

Two hundred dollars in gold hidden. The Buried Treasure Story in next SUNDAY'S AMERICAN will tell you how to get that or at least your share of it.

One hundred and twenty-five dollars in gold for those who select the best names for the Paragon Park Baby Elephant. There will be a coupon in the next SUNDAY AMERICAN with blank space for your name for the elephant, and your own name and address.

One hundred and fifty tickets admitting to all of the Paragon Park attractions. These tickets are just as good as gold.

A new Red Dollar Sign Girl—the famous Lady Bountiful of New England—will be there with another purse of gold. It will contain $50. The purse will be in the form of a Red Dollar Sign Envelope.

Next Sunday is the star day in the great popular gold hunts.

But you can't be sure of the money unless you read next SUNDAY'S AMERICAN, which will have information of vital importance to the gold searchers.

JAIL FOR RICH LAW-BREAKERS ---BONAPARTE

Special to the Boston American.

LENOX, Aug. 8.—Declaring that a better moral effect would be produced by sending a few trust controllers to jail when their corporations are found guilty of breaking the laws, Attorney-General Bonaparte, upon the eve of his departure from here to Washington, plainly intimated that the government was not through with Harriman and his kind.

He intimated pretty plainly that criminal prosecutions would follow the result of the Interstate Commerce Commission's investigation of the Harriman railroad system.

Mr. Bonaparte was asked if action, personally, against Mr. Harriman would be included in the prosecutions. He replied somewhat enigmatically:

"I have noticed a good many complaints that criminal prosecutions against trust magnates and sentences of imprisonment for them have been very infrequent, and in fact, for practical purpose unknown. It is perfectly true that, by my opinion, at least, a better moral effect would be produced by sending a few prominent men to jail than by a great deal of litigation, however successful, against the corporations they controlled.

"It is the avowed purpose of the Department of Justice to prosecute criminally anyone who is really responsible for violations of the anti-trust law wherever it can do so with any reasonable probability of success."

REMOVE GLASS FROM LEG AFTER 25 YEARS

TRENTON, N. J., Aug. 8.—Arthur H. Wood, cashier of the First National Bank of this city, underwent an operation to-day for relief from a supposedly spralned tendon in his hip. The surgeon was surprised to find a piece of glass in the hip. Now Wood remembers that the glass entered his knee twenty-five years ago when he was residing in the rear of the State House. The silver had never troubled him before, despite its journey from his knee to his hip.

Boston American Daily Home Magazine

DOROTHY DIX SAYS, "DON'T FLIRT WHEN YOU GO VISITING," IN THE LAST OF HER SERIES OF

Ten Commandments for Summer Girls

THE tenth commandment of the Summer girl is this:

Flirt not with thy hostess's husband, nor yet with her son, nor her brother, for thou hast eaten of her salt, and honor constraineth thee to wait until her back is turned.

When you go a-visiting, daughter, make yourself agreeable to the male relatives of your hostess. That is politeness.

But be agreeable within strict fire limits. That is prudence. Be polite to them, but not over pleasant. Be fascinating, but not too fascinating.

This is not always an easy thing to do. If a girl is pretty and attractive other women's sons and brothers have a way of falling in love with her, and it is a perilous undertaking to maintain toward them the precise psychological temperature and air that are sufficiently warm to satisfy them and still cool enough to please mamma and sister.

Logic Broken

The difficulty is complicated by the fact that an older woman's position on the subject breaks every rule of logic and reason into smithereens, and it is the condition of a woman's temper on the subject, and not the theory of what it ought to be, with which you have to contend.

And truth forces me to admit that nothing so sets a woman's nerves on edge as seeing a girl ensnare a man of her family right under her own eyes, unless it is beholding the girl turn him down after he has done her the stupendous honor of throwing the handkerchief to her.

"The minx! The hussy! The bold baggage! to try to catch my Tom, or Dick, or Harry, when she was staying right in my own house!" cries mamma or sister in the case.

"The ungrateful little wretch, to refuse a man like Tom, or Dick, or Harry, and after all I did for her, too, having her down here and entertaining her in my own house," wails mamma or sister in the other case.

So, whichever way you do, unless you preserve a strictly neutral attitude, you will be impaled on one horn or the other of the dilemma, and be neatly gored to death. Therefore, if you are wise, daughter, you will head off the man who wants to make love to you under his own roof until some more convenient time and season when his female relatives will not be called upon to assist.

Peculiarity of Sex

It is one of the peculiarities of our sex —oh, yes, you'll have it, too, if you live long enough—that no woman can bear with fortitude to see a man she loves making love to another woman. We may want our sons and brothers to marry. You may even be the girl we have picked out for your Tom, or Dick, or Harry, after you marry him we may receive you with open arms as a daughter or sister, but during the courtship your name is Anathema.

We simply can't endure to sit by and look on while the surgical operation of amputating his heart from us and grafting it on to you is taking place.

So, never make the mistake of thinking that you ingratiate yourself with your hostess by spending the hours of your visit spooning with mamma's darling or sister's pet.

She will think you less a sneak thief if you carried away the silver spoons in your trunk when you departed. Many girls fall into the error of believing that they flatter the woman they are visiting by flirting with her men kind, and never perceive their blunder until they suddenly awaken to the fact that their erstwhile cordial welcome is playing around the freezing point, with indications of a still further fall unless they look out.

An Experience

Their experience is like that of a Louisiana girl I once knew who returned from a two weeks' stay on a plantation expectant to the loutish son of her hostess—an engagement that she promptly broke as soon as she was safely back home again.

"What on earth made you do such a silly thing as get yourself into such an entanglement?" she was asked.

"Why," she naively exclaimed, "what else could I do? I couldn't refuse a man in his own house. It would have looked the limit of a cad; but, unfortunately, so unappreciative of the hospitality that his mother was showing me."

Which was needless to remark, a point of view not shared by the young man's mother.

When it comes to a woman's husband the advice of "hands off" has been most strenuously insisted upon. A married man who takes advantage of a girl being a guest in his house or on his yacht or in his car to get sentimental with her is about the limit of a cad; but, unfortunately, he is ubiquitous, and any girl who goes about much is sure to meet him sooner or later.

Cold Shoulder

Give him such a cold shoulder, daughter, that you will make him feel that his name is Peary, and that he has unexpectedly discovered the North Pole.

Never, under any circumstances, flirt with a married man. It is bad form, and bad form, and bad judgment; for there's always some eligible man looking on, getting points on the sort of girl that he doesn't want for a wife.

When you are a woman guest all these arguments against entangling alliances with swindlers apply with a thousand fold more force. The wife has trusted him. She is spending her time and her strength and her money trying to make you have a good time, and if in a poor return to her to amuse yourself by stabbing her heart with jealousy.

Even a savage is loyal to the bread he has eaten, and having once partaken of a woman's hospitality you ate in honor bound to treat her husband as you will you want other girl to treat yours some day.

So, daughter, when you go a-visiting lay out all the moonlight walks with your hostess's husband unless she goes along.

Cut out the long heart-to-heart converse, also on the shady end of the veranda of the Summer cottage, and be taken down with sudden headaches when Mr. Benedict invites you to confidential drives.

Thus shall you play fair with the woman who is entertaining you, and thus shall you will go forth as a maiden it is safe to have around, and the bread and salt you ate within will return to you in the angel food of many invitations to smart country places.

Give him such a cold shoulder, daughter, that you will make him feel that his name is Peary and that he has unexpectedly discovered the North Pole.—DOROTHY DIX.

Three Secrets for Women Who Want to Have Good Hair

THERE are three great secrets of success in keeping the hair beautiful:

Keep up the general health, eat properly, digest your food, exercise your muscles.

Attend scrupulously to the cleanliness of the hair, to its regular brushing and combing.

See that your scalp does not suffer from dampness, and be sure that the skin at the roots of the hair receives plenty of air.

The beauty of a fine head of hair consists not merely in its abundance and length, but in its texture, suppleness, and a certain loveliness of color that glints and glows in a harmony of changing shades. This charm is confined to no color, but is the result of healthiness and cultivation, and is impossible to attain unless the hair be free from dyes and stains.

How to Shampoo

TOO frequent shampooing is as great a mistake as to neglect the practice entirely.

When washing the hair once or twice a month, as the case may be, always use warm water, to which add one spoonful of liquid ammonia, and use either pure white soap, fresh tar soap or a little liquid soap, which your druggist will put up.

After soaping be careful to rinse the hair thoroughly, so that no soap remains upon it.

The scalp needs air—plenty of air. This constant airing must be given either by letting your hair hang down your back as long as possible or by brushing and combing it.

In the morning and at night the hair must be combed, each lock separately, beginning at the ends and gradually going up to the top; in this way the hairs are less liable to break, and the knots can be disentangled as you proceed.

The combing of the hair must be done with a large comb, with widely separated teeth, and not with a fine comb. Always use a shell comb, and beware of bone and celluloid combs, which burn and cut the hair.

Brush Carefully

IN the morning and at night, after being combed, the hair must be brushed with a rather hard brush, the bristles of which can penetrate the hair without bending.

Abstain from using metal brushes, as they irritate the scalp and tear the hair. Brush the hair always each lock separately, but from top to bottom, and make the brushing last until it becomes brilliant.

To sleep, divide your hair into small plaits, and braid, and let it hang down your back. Never be in a hurry when dressing your hair, and never pull or tug at it.

Avoid a too heavy style of doing up the hair, the making up of which necessitates a great quantity of hairpins and combs, as well as those coiffures which imprison the hair by tightening it.

Give your preference to puffed headdresses, and avoid, as much as possible, false hair and heavy hats.

FAD FOR PEARL RINGS GROWS

MANY women have a liking just now for wearing three or four pearl rings to the exclusion of every other finger ornament, however dazzling or costly. Anyhow, it's a change, and attracts susceptible man's attention to tapering fingers. The stones are large. If one wants to be modish, and should be out in the most airy manner possible, "suggesting," says a rancilful person, "that the pearl has just dropped upon the hand."

"DO F course I will. Do be careful how you walk. About 7:30."

"I will be here by then," he answered.

On the last flight of stone steps he came face to face with Lord Arranmore, who nodded and pointed upward with his walking stick.

"How much of this sort of thing?" he asked, dryly.

"Very stories," Brooks answered, and passed out into the street.

Lord Arranmore looked after him—watched him until he was out of sight.

"Damned cheek!" he muttered at last; and began the ascent.

CHAPTER IV.

A Marquis on Matrimony.

"AH!" Lord Arranmore said, settling himself in the most comfortable of her fragile easy chairs, and reflecting, "I cannot fail to perceive that my cause is hopeless. The united efforts of myself and your worthy relatives appear to be powerless to unearth a single grain of common sense in your composition—singularly obstinate disposition."

A slight smile played at the corners of her mouth.

"I am delighted that you are convinced, Lord Arranmore," she said, "it will save us both a good deal of time and breath."

"Indeed! I wish I could feel so sure," he answered, deliberately. "You forget that there is still one important matter to be decided."

She looked at him questioningly.

"The disposal of it? But that has nothing to do with you, Lord Arranmore," she said, coldly. "I refuse to touch it—to have anything to do with it."

He shook his head.

"You are," he explained. "I have placed it, or rather my solicitors have, in trust. Actually, you may decline, but you are doing, to have anything to do with it—legally you cannot avoid the responsibilities. That money cannot be touched without your signature."

She laughed a little indignantly.

"Then you had better withdraw it from them, or whatever you call it, at once. If it was there until I was eighty I should never touch it."

"I understand that perfectly," Lord Arranmore said. "You have reflected. It's very well. What are we going to do with it?"

"Put it back where it came from, of course," she answered.

Refuse!

"Well," he said, "by signing several papers that might be managed. In that case I should distribute it among the various public houses in the East End to provide drinks for a month for all their customers."

"If you think that," she said, scornfully, "a reputable use to make of your money—"

"Would be," he finished.

"My dear Miss Scott! Our money?"

"My money," she exclaimed. "I repeat, the money. Well, there is nothing more to be said about it."

"You will sign the papers which authorize me to distribute the money in this way?"

She thought for a moment.

"No," she said, "I will not."

"Exactly. You would be very foolish if you were not to refuse, even though I did. So you see, this sum is not to be flaunted altogether in your face. There is no doubt that I should misuse it. Now I believe that if you were to offer me a better a little consideration you could hit upon a more suitable manner of buying out this sum. Don't interrupt me, please. My offer is as to the disposal of the money. You, however, look at the matter from a altogether wrong point of view. Let us leave it where it is for the moment. Something may occur to you within the next few months. Don't let it be a hobby-horse, but something altogether practical, if you can help me. Something that will benefit England would be best. Set your brain to work. I shall be at your service at any moment."

He rose to his feet and began to collect his belongings. Then their eyes met, and she burst out laughing—he, too, smiled.

"You are very ingenious, Lord Arranmore," she said.

"It is my conscience," he assured her. "It is out of gear to the tune of three thousand."

"I don't believe in the conscience," she answered. "This is sheer obstinacy. You have made up your mind that I should be interested in that money somehow, and you can't bear to suffer defeat."

A Prediction

"I am an old man," he said, "and you are a young woman. Let us leave it where it is for awhile. I have an idea of the sort of life which you are planning for yourself. Believe me, that you will be willing to give years of your life, years of your labor and your youth, to throw yourself into a struggle which without money is hopeless. Remember there was a time when I, too, was young.

"I, too, saw these things as you and Brooks see them to-day. I do not wish to be unkind, but I remember, I fought and won a world. So will you be. The whole thing is a vast chimera, a jest of the god of unrest, and nothing more. But as long as the world lasts the young will have to buy knowledge—as I have bought it. Don't go into the fray empty handed—it will only prolong the suffering."

"You speak," she protested, gently, "as though it were impossible to do good."

"It is absolutely and entirely impossible to do good by any means which you and Brooks and the whole army of your fellow philanthropists have yet evoked," he answered, with a little note in his tones. "Don't think that I speak to you as the cynic who sits on the edge of a cauldron and peers in to gratify cravings for sensation. I have been there, down to the thick of it, there where the mud is as black as hell—hideous as eternity.

"I was young—as you—mad with emotions, and I had the strength, belief, I meant to cleanse the world. I worked till the skin hung on my bones. I gave all that I had—youth—gifts—money. And, do you know why I was doing? I was striving against the tide of natural law, stronger than all mankind, unconquerable, eternal. There wasn't the smallest corner of the world the better for my broken life. What I want is a child, a man, or a woman content to grasp my hand and climb out. There was plenty who mocked me. But they fell back again. They will back always."

"Oh, but you can't tell that," she cried. "You can't be sure."

"You can be as sure of it as of life itself," he answered. "Come, take my advice. I know. I can save you a broken youth—a broken heart. Keep away from there."

He pointed out of the window eastwards.

"You can do something to help others, subscribe to societies, visit the sick, read the Bible, play at it as long as you like—but keep away from the real thing. If you feel the fever in your veins—fly. Go abroad, study art, literature, music—anything.

"Only don't listen to that cry. It will draw you—against your will even. But not you nor the whole world of women, nor the world full of gold, will ever stop it. It is the unending legacy to the world of outraged nature."

Meets Old Friends

That evening Lord Arranmore attended the reception of a friend on the edge of a London square, and was introduced to many of his old friends. One of them, Hemilfiel, detached himself from the group where he had been talking and joined Arranmore.

"This is odd," he remarked, with a whimsical smile. "What the dickens are you doing in this respectable household, Arranmore? You look like a lost sheep."

Lord Arranmore shrugged his shoulders, and said, "Politics or society or something of that sort. What do you recommend?"

DELICIOUS SHERBET

ONE lemon, squeeze juice over one cup sugar; mash two bananas and stir well together. When ready to freeze add one pint milk.

MRS. ARTHUR HUNT.

CRANBERRY PIE

One quart cranberries (do not cook, but chop with one cup seeded raisins), one and one-half cups sugar; wet one tablespoon corn starch with a little cold water and add one cup boiling water; half teaspoon salt; all well mixed, and bake in half cup hot water. Bake with two crusts.

MRS. J. A. ARTHUR, SAINT.
No. 238 South Main street, St. Albans, Vt.

TOMATO CATSUP

BOIL the tomatoes without water and strain. To one gallon tomatoes add four tablespoons of salt, two tablespoons black pepper, one and a half tablespoons allspice, one and a half tablespoons cloves, one and a half teaspoons of red pepper, two tablespoons of mustard, one pint of vinegar. Boil slowly three hours.

CHILI SAUCE

Nine large tomatoes, four onions, one pepper, one tablespoon salt, one tablespoon sugar, one cup of vinegar. Boil one hour and run through a colander. Boil vinegar and sugar; skim; add spices and boil one more, then pour it over cucumbers.

MRS. E. PERSON,
No. 61 Maple street, Norwood.

ORIENTAL JAM

ONE pound of raisins, two pounds of tart cherries, three oranges, juice and rind; four pounds of sugar. Chop the fruit, add the sugar and boil for twenty minutes. Seal in small airtight jars while hot. This is delicious.

MRS. CHARLES SMITHIES,

Expert Advice on Health and Beauty

ORIENTAL women make a delicious paste of dates and apricots, which sweetens and softens the timbre of the voice. The fruit is pared and cooked with an equal quantity of sugar very slowly till reduced to a thin jam, when it is poured into flat boxes and dried in the sun. A raw egg beaten up with a little lemon juice taken before breakfast will strengthen and clear the voice.

Tincture of benzoin if used too often will cause fine wrinkles. A teaspoonful of it in a basin of water when washing in the morning and again at night is advised. If using daily discontinue after fourth week.

REMOVE WARTS

DEAR PROFESSOR:

Will you please tell me how to remove warts from my hands? I have several and would like to get rid of them as soon as possible.

CONSTANT READER.

SOME remove warts by applying the milky juice of the milkweed. They can also be burned away with caustic or with a strong acid, but this is apt to leave unsightly scars. You can also cover a wart with a drop of vinegar and then fill with as much baking soda as the vinegar will hold. Leave this on for ten minutes and wipe off and repeat several times until the wart has disappeared. The vinegar and soda must be left on long enough to eat away the wart or no good will come of the treatment. This will leave a tiny white scar. The best remedy is to have them taken off with the electric needle.

SULPHUR AND MOLASSES

DEAR PROFESSOR:

Will you please tell me how to mix sulphur and molasses for the blood, how much and how often to take it?

A. C. R.

MIX the sulphur with three times the quantity of molasses. Take a teaspoonful of the mixture each night and morning for three days, rest three days and take again for another three days. Repeat his until you have taken the sulphur nine days in all.

ARRANGE HAIR TO SUIT

DEAR PROFESSOR:

I have a very high forehead, which distresses me very much, and I wish you would kindly tell me of some way to make the hair grow down farther.

DOROTHY.

DON'T try to make the hair grow down, but arrange it in a becoming way so that it falls partly over the forehead and hides its height. If the hair is arranged softly and loosely in some way to cover a part of the forehead, and the back built on how low instead on top of the head, you will find that you do not need to have the hair grow lower.

UNRULY EYEBROWS

DEAR PROFESSOR:

Kindly give me some advice as to straightening the eyebrows, as mine are bound to curl up all the time, especially at the ends. I am always fixing them, but still they seem to get no better. They are also very stiff and heavy, as I do not want them thicker, but soft and straight.

D. L.

PASTE some manila paper with the white of an egg, drying it quickly in an oven not too hot. After you have brushed your eyebrows into the position which you wish them to retain dampen a little piece of this wrinkle paper and paste over them. Then they will have to stay there until they get into the habit of so doing. If there are some that refuse to lie in the right place pull them out. Brush the eyebrows for a few minutes every night before pasting them up for the night and they will be soft and glossy. Any oil applied to them would have a tendency to make them grow thicker, which you do not want.

Wedding Dresses for the Widow-Bride

WITH regard to the garb of widows who are desirous of entering upon a second venture, however fashion may vary in the attire of the marriage of a maiden, it is unchanged in essentials. The widow-bride should wear a hat or toque, or even a bonnet, if her age be somewhat beyond mere maturity.

The wreath and veil are for the first marriage only. Nor does a widow-bride carry a bouquet, though she may wear real flowers in her dress, and often does. She is not permitted to have bridesmaids, but is usually attended by a friend who is known as the matron-of-honor, bridesmaid—who stands behind the bride during the ceremony, and holds her prayer book and her glove and bouquet.

The wedding ring of the previous marriage is not removed till the morning of the second bridal, and the widow should not wear her second engagement ring on the finger which is spanned by this wedding ring.

The widow-bride is given away by her nearest male relative; sometimes, but not often, by her mother, and the routine of the ceremony and reception is exactly the same as that of any ordinary wedding. It is not unusual for a relative of the first husband to give her away.

TOMORROW'S BEST BARGAINS IN BOSTON'S BIG STORES

THE woman who delays her Summer canning and preserving to take advantage of the choice mid-season markdown offerings in the big stores will not be sorry. At just this season the best of the year's odd lots are being offered at bargain prices. Here are some of them:

Some of the prettiest oriental couch covers that this season are these which Filene's are offering at $1.35 to-morrow. They are in dark, oriental colors, full length and width, with fringe all round.

Lace curtains are very much in demand for bargain in shirt waists—and what woman is not?—and Filene's are going into Gilchrist's early to-morrow and secure one of the $1.25 numbers which they are offering for 69 cents. They are made of sheer lawn, daintily scalloped and embroidered across front or back. The embroidered fronts are in a number of patterns and they are exceptionally well made.

If you want to add to your collection of cut glass, you can purchase a salad bowl to-morrow at Jordan Marsh Co.'s for $2.29. It is 8 inches in diameter, and has five chrysanthemums, deeply and brilliantly cut. The regular value of this dish is $3.50.

Girls, you'd better get one of those dimity waists which Plummers have marked from $5 to $2.95 for to-morrow. They are made with extra full waist and pleated skirt with fold around bottom.

You can get at Voreuper's to-morrow gold-filled pencils, with colored stones in the tops, for the regular price, 10 cents.

You can get dainty muslin shirtwaist suits, in white and colors, for $1.95 at Conery's to-morrow. They are beautifully trimmed with Val. insertion and finished with tucks.

White shirtwaist suits will be sold to-morrow for $1.69 at the Model on Winter street. They are allsilk ruffled and for that reason are marked down from $3 and $4. You will find a full line of suits for $1.89 seventeen prettily trimmed hats which have sold from $4 to $7.

Children's "warm weather" dresses of pink, blue, white and tan linen will be on sale to-morrow at R. Shorn's for 69c. They are made with Dutch neck and kimono sleeves, and are very much trimmed and are in sizes from four to twelve years. The former price was $1.50.

The old-fashioned blue and white teapots with bamboo handles and insulating strainer will be on sale at Bacon's to-morrow for 14 cents. The regular price is 20 cents.

Are you going away? Take a lightweight suit case. You can get the largest size at Butler's to-morrow for $1.50. Remember these cases are waterproof lined and are good values at $2.

You will find a pretty collection of white laws waists at MacDonald's Tremont Temple Store to-morrow for $1.00, with fronts handsomely trimmed with torchon lace insertion, three-quarter sleeves and buttoned front. This style is very scarce, and has never sold for less than $2.00.

Ill-Fitting Belts Mar Any Costume

BELTS are important items in most of the costumes of the day. Under the bolero, which forms the top of so many tailor-made dresses, a deep and well-fitted belt is indispensable.

It is the leading point in the evening empire frock. Between the edges of a directoire coat the belt appears as the feature of the under corsage.

To meet the necessities of the waist and skirt, a well-fitting belt is important. Even ribbon for the belt they hold the muslin frock is improved by a sash or waistband of some harmonious shade of satin ribbon.

For morning dresses of serge or cloth and for waists and skirts patent leather belts are fashionable, and so are dull surfaced kid, and both are inexpensive.

For afternoon wear the belts obtainable are some of them as carefully fitted and heavily boned as if they were corsets. One of these will give great smartness to a plain muslin gown.

A pair of well-chosen buckles often will suffice to produce a good effect with plain belts.

The Boston American Pattern

No. 5,829—The little boy-plaited dress is directly illustrated, particularly becoming to the childish figure, as the berths and sleeve caps tend to give breadth to the wearer's shoulders. A fitted lining and full-length bishop sleeves are included in the pattern, which may be omitted if open neck and short sleeves are desired. The skirt of the dress is in round outline and permits the wearing of different lengths. Rose plaid gingham was chosen for the making, but any of the fancy checks would be suitable, also such linens as sun's veiling, cashmere, challis and poplin. For a child of 4 years 4¼ yards of 36-inch material will be required.

No. 5,829—Sizes for 4, 6, 8, 10 and 12 years.

To obtain this pattern, postpaid, send 10 cents, name of pattern and address, to the BOSTON AMERICAN PATTERN DEPT., P. O. Box 2230, Boston, Mass., allowing one week for delivery.

No. 5,829. (August 8, 1907.)

Where two lists are equally good, the prize will be awarded to the one who makes the best suggestion regarding the Sunday paper.

"La Milo" as Lady Godiva in Big British Parade

COVENTRY, Eng., Aug. 8.—The tremendous success of the Lady Godiva pageant, revived after twenty years, which brought 100,000 commoners and nobility here yesterday, will undoubtedly cause the famous spectacle to become a perennial institution now.

The role of Lady Godiva was taken this year by "La Milo," who is Miss Pansy Montagu in private life, and who is famous in the music hall circuit for her classical posing. She rode a white circus horse and was draped in white ceiling, with masses of auburn hair streaming down over her figure.

The pageant was seen by many wealthy Americans, who paid high prices for window seats along the line of parade. Members of the Bradley-Martin family were noticeable among the visitors.

Honor Grim Earl's Wife.

The pageant of Lady Godiva is in honor of the famous wife of the grim Earl of Mercia, who lived just prior to the Norman conquest. The Earl taxed his subjects terribly. They appealed to Lady Godiva who, in turn, appealed to her husband. The lady was renowned for her modesty and piety. I struck the rude Earl as a fitting jest to tell his wife he would abate the taxes if she would ride through Coventry market pace clad only in her long hair.

Lady Godiva took him at his noble word. But she sent word through all over the town of the hard conditions and asked all her people, as they loved her, to keep within doors and not so much as peep out while she made her ride. Town she set forth and fulfilled her Lord's conditions. One churl, so the legend runs, peeped fortly from his window and was stricken blind. His name "Peeping Tom," has become a byword in history.

Commemorated in Verse.

Alfred, Lord Tennyson, has commemorated the event in a beautiful poem, "Godiva," an excerpt from which is:

"She sent a herald forth,
And bade him cry, with sound of trumpet, all
The hard conditions, but that she would loose
The people; therefore, as they loved her well,
From then till noon no foot should pace the street,
No eye look down; she passing, but that all
Should keep within doors and windows shut and darken'd duly.

For the past 200 years the Godiva pageant has been a source of contention between the prudish who said the very idea of such a parade was immoral, and the broader-minded who clung to the legendary display. This last appearance of Lady Godiva was made only after a committee had passed upon the prospective sight.

WOMAN DRAGGED BY HORSE.

HEBRON, Me., Aug. 8.—While driving, Miss Elizabeth Fuller, aged twenty-five, fainted, fell from the seat of the wagon, and her dress catching in the wheels, she was dragged a quarter of a mile before the horse was stopped. She has been unconscious for several hours and may die.

"I Suffered Agony from Gall-Stones.

Now I Am Cured."

"FOR a long time I suffered agony from a terrible case of Gall-Stones. Nothing gave me relief and life was a misery and a torture.

"My family were seriously considering an operation to save my life when I determined to try Appendixine. I took it according to directions, and the second day brought me immense relief. After that I rapidly recovered until now I say 'God bless the man who invented Appendixine.' It certainly is a grand medicine and does all it claims. It certainly will keep the doctors from cutting people up.

"I now feel fine and hope that my experience will benefit others who suffer as I did. To all such I would say Take Appendixine at once."

Browne's Cow Here Again! How Much Grazing Space Do YOU Say Bossy Had?

Over how much ground area did Browne's bossy eat?

That is the problem or part of the problem which has been submitted to the BOSTON AMERICAN readers and has all the thinkers going. The problem was originated by Professor S. J. Brown of the Washington University, out in St. Louis. It is a stickler. Look!

A cow is tied to the corner of a shed (twenty-five feet square) by a rope 100 feet long. Over how much ground will it be possible for her to graze?

This may give you a few brainstorms, but think it over, then your pencil and pad and go to it. You have our permission to use any form of arithmetic to solve it.

After you have figured it out to your own satisfaction send your answer and an explanation with it to the PROBLEM EDITOR of the BOSTON AMERICAN and see how near you come to the correct solution.

Here are some of the answers received to-day:

Poor Cow Gets Nothing.

PROBLEM EDITOR—I believe from the ambiguity apparent in that problem that there is a catch. I do not figure it out, but I believe that the cow was so tied to the corner of the shed that she could not get anything. She did not cover any space, I think, and the cow was handed up lemon and Browne is trying to pass it on to us.

J. STINER.

Beachmont.

27,696 Square Feet, He Says.

PROBLEM EDITOR—I believe Browne's cow ate the grass from ground contained in about seven-eighths of a circle which was 200 feet in diameter. That means that bossy ate over about 27,696 square feet of ground.

JACK MATTHEWS.

Jamaica Plain.

Oh, Just Hear the Joker.

PROBLEM EDITOR—Browne's cow grazed over 40,832⅞ square feet of ground. You know that is right, so I need not explain.

A JOKER.

City Hall.

Chelsea Man Tries It.

PROBLEM EDITOR—Ordinarily I should think the cow would be able to eat the surface off, save a space twenty-five feet square, a circle 200 feet in diameter. Therefore, the cow would graze over about three-quarters of the circle, the shed occupying the other part of the circle, leaving the cow 23,609 square feet from which to eat.

R. J. LUTHER.

Chelsea.

This Man Knows Cows.

PROBLEM EDITOR—From my extended knowledge of cows I should say that this cow of Mr. Browne's would eat over about fifty square feet. Long before evening she would have wrapped that hundred feet of rope over about that twenty-five foot square shed and be circling her pegs in trying to do it again. I say fifty square feet because it would be impossible for her to feed long without getting into trouble if she is tied.

MARTIN GURKE.

Arlington.

You try it. Get out your old arithmetic and study over a little algebra and see if you cannot figure it out—S. equals the cow and so on. When you get it send it to the Problem Editor. Make your letters short and we shall see what we shall see.

The same problem when sprung in St. Louis almost put half the people in Missouri in the lunacy factory. Will it do that to Boston?

Try it now.

CAPITALISTS HASTEN SWAY OF SOCIALISM

—PROF. ZUEBELIN

CHICAGO, Aug. 8.—"Great capitalists are paving the way for a reign of Socialism in America, and are doing far more to hasten their era than the confessed Socialists, who injure their cause by constant quibbling. Men of the type of Rockefeller, Harriman and Morgan, through their genius for organization and centralization, are making it easy for the government to take over the organizations they now head and handle them under a socialistic rule. Eventually the State will control all the industries of the present money kings."

Before an audience that filled Kent Theatre, Professor Charles Zuebelin, head of the sociological department in Chicago University, the school Rockefeller's millions founded, made the above remark. He attacked the Standard Oil Company, characterized its methods as business chicanery, said Judge Landis's fine was just, and dubbed Rockefeller, Harriman and Morgan the only real dyed-in-the-wool Socialists.

Faultless Linen

Duryeas' Gloss Starch produces a deep-seated finish that is really a part of the fabric itself—one that lasts longer, looks better and is less susceptible to dust and moisture than that of any other starch. It possesses remarkable penetrating qualities and unusual flexibility and does away with streaked, spotted, blistered linen. No matter where used invariably produces a flawless, white-as-snow finish with just the body and degree of stiffness that perfect work requires. Most economical.

DURYEA'S GLOSS STARCH

HUNDREDS SEE TRAIN KILL 4

By Boston American Leased Wire.

NEW YORK, Aug. 8.—Three girls and a man, hurried from a hoodoo by the impact of the "Banker's Special" running sixty miles an hour, were instantly killed near Allenhurst, N. J., station of the Pennsylvania Railroad at dusk yesterday. Two hundred society women of that exclusive resort watched the tragedy from the depot platform, and either fainted or ran away screaming in horror.

The dead are: Loretta Grace, Jennie McDonald, Hannah Murphy, witnesses in the Norwood Hotel, and Thomas Edwards, driver of Allenhurst.

POLICE FOES OF CUPID HAVE ALL RESIGNED

Salisbury Beach Authorities Quit on Account of "Six-Inch" Spooning Rule

ACCUSED OF FAVORITISM

Special to the Boston American.

SALISBURY, Aug. 8.—An enthusiastic rush of "spooners" is expected at Salisbury Beach to-night on account of the resignation of Police Chief Fred Powers, who first issued the horrid edict that all couples on the shining seashore sands must sit at least six inches apart.

The entire force has resigned with Chief Powers. This force consisted of Patrolmen Barmer, Ferris chief Walton. Now the town is policeless and great is the rejoicing among the sentimentally inclined.

Mecca of the Lovelorn.

For years Salisbury Beach has been the Mecca of lovelorn swains and languishing maids from Newburyport, Grasshopper Plains, Pleasant Valley, Merrimac, Amesbury and even so far as Haverhill and Atkinson, N. H.

The Cupid which serves as the patron saint of Salisbury Beach was handed a fearful wallop when Chief Powers, in his very first term this Spring, proclaimed that couples should have at least six inches of ocean sand between them when they sat on the shore and listened to what the wild waves were saying, sister.

Then business men along the beach complained that the police were playing favorites in enforcing the laws. Finally it was declared the police appropriation was being extravagantly expended. As a last resort a petition signed by eighty-two voters was presented to the Selectmen asking that the police resign.

Police Resign in a Body.

A counter petition was signed by some friends of the police. The matter was to be threshed out in a citizens' mass meeting to-night. But the chief and his trusty three patrolmen forestalled matters by resigning in a body.

The burning issue now is: Why is to be the new chief and the new force, and how will they stand on the "six-inch" question?

41,000 SEEK INCREASE IN RAILROAD PAY

Delegates in Secret Session Urge Wages to Meet Cost of Living.

INVOLVES THE NEW HAVEN.

PITTSBURG, Pa., Aug. 8.—Representatives of upward 41,000 organized railroad workers employed on the great railroads of the eastern half of the country have been in secret session for ten days or more at Cambridge Springs, Pa., discussing various plans for obtaining a readjustment of wage schedules.

The railroad workers represented at the conference declare that a substantial increase ought to be granted to them in view of the great increase in the cost of living. They say it is impossible to make both ends meet at the present scale of wages.

BIG TREAT FOR HUB ROOTERS

One of Many Snappy Plays in Opening Game Between Pilgrims and White Sox

THE picture shows Isbell nearly caught off third in the sixth inning. He had reached the bag on Congalton's muff of his liner, a steal and Donohue's out at first. Cy threw over to catch him napping and the picture shows the play. A moment later Isbell was run down between third and home by Young and Criger, on Davis's rap to Cy.

HUNTINGTON AVENUE GROUNDS, Boston, Aug. 8.—With a double header on tap with the World's champions here it is no wonder that the fans hustled to the links this afternoon. That terrific fourteen-inning game of yesterday when the locals fucked under their belts also put the baseball impulse of the Hub on edge, and Groundskeeper Jerome Kelly overhauled his mower and put them ready to stretch across the outfield in case of necessity.

Sniffin like Mahanny piano mover, was told to play the first game for the locals with McFarland to hold his curves. In the second battle Manager Stahl was resigned to send in Ed Walsh, the mudsill artist, after the 60 whim with Hub short only hold him.

For Boston the Deacon warmed up Winter, Pruiett, Glaze and Morgan. The locals were feeling fine after their great win of yesterday and they were resolved to shove the Sox further down in the cellar if possible.

The Bostons have been playing fine ball ever since they returned from the last western trip and the local fans are convinced that there is not a club in the league that has anything on them.

NOTES OF THE GAME.

Hats off to Uncle Cy. Also to Hobe, Wag, Jake, Low and a few others.

Maybe Nick wasn't disgusted when Jones hauled him out of the box in the ninth after Unglaub, the first man up, had tripled. Oh, no, we guess not.

It looked like a sure thing for the Sox when our boys rolling along made before Walsh's motor ball. But they finally got to him good in their innings not a hit went beyond the infielders.

Cheerful Charles Hickman, with his foghorn voice did his best on the coaching lines. Comiskey signed Charles for a combination pitcher hitter outfielder.

Colonel Unglaub saved a lot of errors by pulling in wild throws. He was on first that is seldom equalled.

And, perhaps the Chicago baggers didn't look good. That last clout of his was a peach, too, but Pat Dougherty got under it after a hard run.

By the way, Robert picked out the wrong time to score in the fifth. He was on third, following a triple, with no one out. Ferris hit a bounder toward second base that Davis took on the run. If Unglaub had tried for the plate he would have made it as Davis was away out of position for a throw. But the old standpatter played his position in his usual artistic style.

Charley Wagner has improved greatly and accepted all but one. His error was a careless boot, for which Unglaus which Rahn failed to hold when it looked as if he had the first bound.

Pitcher Knob, the lanky left-handed, has been ordered to report to the Boston club at once. He has been with the Athletics this season, but Boston had a string on him.

H. M. Schraudenach, alias "Rowdy" C. Dreyfuss, the Herald baseball writer, or George Rice, who writes on rice paper, are with the White Sox in the capacity of war correspondents. Wonder how they explained expenses to their respective constituents.

Allow us to call the attention of the early birds to Morgan as a fungo hitter.

The road Jeffersonian is made up of the 2:30½ trot, 2:24 and free-for-all pacing classes.

TIGERS WANT SUMMERS NOW.

DETROIT, Aug. 8.—Detroit wants the services of Pitcher Summers, whom they purchased from Indianapolis for $3,500, at once, and they have offered Pitchers Rubank and Willetts and a bonus of $1,000, if President Watkins will surrender his star twirler now.

RALPH WICK WINS RACE AT WOONSOCKET

Special to the Boston American.

WOONSOCKET, R. I., Aug. 8.—It was a clean sheet for the Boston horses in the three-cornered race at the Riverside park, but it took seventeen of the hardest kind of heats for them to finally head the stakewinners, six to two races and five in the other.

That the exciting sport was hugely enjoyed by the large crowd was certain from the cheering whenever a different horse managed to land in front of his field. Just such "chess racin'" is what fills the grand stand.

South Boston was well represented to see Ralph Wick start in the 2:14 trot. Carpenter did not think he could win, as last Friday the gelding stepped in a hole, turning his ankle and injuring the foot, but he went rough-gaited till around the first turn, and then his courage made him forget his injuries. The way that he dug for the leaders, mowing them down in the latter heats in the home quarter, brought the spectators to their feet.

Wick was finally picked by the talent for the best in the field, but Ralph Wick was the one Cleaji investments on him going by out-gaming his opponents. Fred Stewart of South Boston was driver of the gelding, who was congratulated on all sides in the stand.

Little Bill, the Brighton gelding that carried off the honors in the six heats, bore out his reputation of always winning the last heat, and was second in gaining a heat, he had a chance of landing with Nordica, his purchaser at the last Readville sale. While he took very dangerous at one stretch, Hills Bier, rallied a couple of heats by hands only in running driver. Croesus, the Lynn gelding, was choice with the pickers.

The 2:20 pace the wins ones got it right, as the pacer Ed Wilkes fill the battle turned to his favor the last three heats, and the mount by Fred Young, son of Brighton, who purchased him last week at Soglo Park, Mass., for the reported price of $2,500, in the race that he gained his first record of 2:17¼, three gaited like track he is better than a 2:10 pacer, as no thing lost he was seen artistic timed in 2:14¾. He is the right-gaited kind, not requiring to hoppies dangling around "shoe" legs.

WORLD'S GREATEST ATHLETES ARE NOT ALWAYS THE PEOPLE'S IDOLS

Not every great athlete wins the meed of popularity.

It is not always the man who deserves most of the sporting public who becomes the popular idol.

James J. Jeffries is perhaps as great a fighter as ever drew on a glove, and many experts believe he could have beaten John L. Sullivan on the best day the Boniface ever knew, but he never was worshipped by the public as John L. was.

A host of similar instances could be named in all directions. Time go to prove that popularity is not necessarily the reward of talent. If a few favorites scribes must that attaches itself to boxer, ball player, horseman, and sticks to him through thick and thin.

The case of Silk O'Loughlin, American League umpire, proves that a man can become popular even in this most difficult of callings.

O'Loughlin is a good umpire, yet he is no better than Sheridan, Connolly or several others who might be named. He has personality. He is always interesting. He is alive and alert on the field. He follows the plays closely. He calls his decisions loudly, as if he enjoyed having the right to decide. The crowd loves to hear him say "Ball out" or with a sweep of the right hand announce in accents pregnant with meaning, "You're out!"

Hence O'Loughlin always gets a hand from the fans.

KINGS OF THE DIAMOND.

Of ball players no present day stars have the following of Wagner and Lajoie. Yorkers would have the remainder of the country believe that Mathewson and Chase get into the front rank of the supreme favorites, but that is no comparison between them and Cleveland and Pittsburg players.

Part of the vogue of the Frenchman and the German perhaps results from the fact that they are almost as hitters. Above all things in baseball the fan loves the batter. The pitcher is admired because of his prime necessity to a team, the catcher is respected because he is the composing key of strike-out plays and must do the throwing to bases; the good stops of the infielder are applauded, so are the pretty catches of the outfielder, and the advanced player who is an expert on the bases will have a hand for the scientific batsman who bunts and sacrifices cleverly.

But after all is said and done, the crowd loves the slugger, the fellow who can send the ball banging up against the fence for two, three and three-bagger, or even put it out of the lot for the most thrilling of moments—a home run.

Lajoie and Wagner both excel in every other department of the game, but their superb players in their positions, and can moreover perform anywhere in any position, except pitcher or catcher, but above all they are sluggers.

Examination of National and American league records shows that in his ten years as a member of fast company, from the time he went to Philadelphia from the Fall River team, through his five years in each league, the batting of Lajoie has been equalled only by Captain Anson and Dan Brouthers.

Never in that time has he hit below .300, never has he hit higher than .350, and at times he has been the leading hitter of his organization, and never has he been out of the first five.

And Lajoie has to get good, honest drives to bring up his average for he is not a hitter to bat out little infield rollers for a running.

WAGNER IS A WONDER.

Wagner, though built like an elephant, is lightning fast, and can get over ground quicker while bending to pick up a ball than any man in baseball. His chest is out of proportion to his legs, it is so immense. He stands as gravity seems to fit his knees instead of his waist. But he can play his position unexcelled, and he can hit any pitcher, against all pitchers, with the most perfect consistency. Moreover, he is the most perfect base runner and a dashing player, which is very taking attribute to the crowd. He was with Dreyfuss in Louisville and played third base. At Pittsburg he was put in every position on the team, save pitcher and catcher.

Wagner could be a lion, and is yet, though he no longer the country's best all-round hitter. Fred Tenney, first of the group left handed first baseman, has a big following, and George Stone of St. Louis, George Davis, Jiggs Donohue, Young Robe and Again.

Nick Altrock of the world's champions, Chance, Brown, Evers, Tinker and Kling of the Chicago Cubs, Cy Young of the Boston Americans, Magee of the Phillies, Fred Clarke and Fittsburg, Jimmy Collins of the Athletics, and Coughlin of Detroit, are players who are only have a following in their own cities, but are applauded all over the circuit.

Among boxers the ring hero who is Irish in extraction has the inside rail in the race for popularity. Most of those who have followed the round trace their descent to Erin's Isle, where fighting is a national habit.

JOHN L. LEADS THEM ALL.

No boxer who ever lived enjoyed the vogue that was John L. Sullivan's. If he rode across the country in a railroad train crowds gathered at every station just to see the car that had the champion for an occupant.

In any city he never walked down the street without drawing a crowd of any from fifty to a thousand after him. People would point at him, never one fearful of criticism of the big fellow. He did the things which were, and figured daily to forgive him.

He was John L., a little eccentric in conduct, perhaps, but he delivered the goods, and they loved him loyally.

Even to-day Sullivan is a bigger card than any man connected with boxing. He can make $500 a week with his vaudeville act just because the public still likes to see him. Fathers actually bring their children to see the man from whom Corbett took the championship of New Orleans fifteen years ago.

Next to Sullivan, the most popular fighter of modern times was Terry McGovern. He was a sort of Sullivan in miniature, a wonderful puncher, a man who won decisive victories, who polished off the best men easily. He found a big title. Young Corbett, who knocked out Terry in a round, was a big one of his greatest upsets, never attained one-tenth of the following that was McGovern's, and even when they met the second time the public certainly made McGovern a favorite, though, of course, Corbett won

ST. LOUIS, Aug. 8.—Tenney and his band arrived for their series with the Cardinals and as usual the manager announced that his men will acquire the entire series, but as the St. Louis aggregation has won only twenty-three games in something over four months, he Mr. Tenney beware.

The Cardinals have just returned from a victorious Western trip. Tuesday they played a team at Quincy, Ill., and came out victors in fifteen innings by the score of 2 to 0. Yesterday they defeated the Burlington team of the Iowa State League by a score of 3 to 2. They used their full regular team, and both pitchers in both games. What will "Little Cy" Young or Pfeffer or even Bodtes do to a bunch like that?

Owing to the stifling heat, it looks as if President George Dovey is to have his first opportunity to use the handsome pavilion recently donated by his boys at Cincinnati.

BAY STATE A. A. WILL HOLD MEET AT READVILLE TRACK

BY J. C. KERRIGON.

The race committee of the Bay State Automobile Association has completed arrangements with the Readville Trotting Horse Association for the use of the Readville track on Labor Day. The committee will now go to work arranging for the different events of the year, and on this occasion expects to furnish several interesting events. While there is every reason to believe that the main attractions will be long distance events for both stock combinations and touring cars, it is more than likely that a number of short events will be arranged in which several of the cars constructed for the abandoned Vanderbilt cup race will participate. The committee appointed to confer with the Readville Trotting Horse Association met on Labor Day and a three days' meeting of some kind was generally considered the following Friday, and presumably a three or four days' race or the Bay State Automobile Association, the motorists will have a series of good things to enjoy.

* * *

The Malden Automobile Club will have an informal opening of its clubhouse in Malden this evening next. Many of the leading motorists of this section have signified their intention of being present during the opening festivities.

* * *

Comparative statistics on the Glidden tour show that the chief troubles were with the running gears, springs, tires and axles, with some transmission difficulties, while the engine was the most reliable and a notable feature. A most amazing demonstration of engine reliability was made during the tour by Charles Price with a six cylinder Stearns car, which made by far the most interesting because of showing the standard character of engines in this type of car. Price's car has been running since June 25 with its honest record, and it is now on its way from New York to Chicago and Cleveland in a reliability and a six hour race successfully, ran also in a twenty-four hour affair, and then made the run from Chicago to New York with the Glidden tour, on this Maxwell cars were officially set, and have since been examined daily by interested parties. Price now sees to see how far the wonderful car will run.

As a general rule it is well to keep the ignition as far advanced as possible with out producing knocking, and a good driver is one who continually adjusts his spark to suit the motor, retarding the spark as the engine slows to hard pulling and keeping it early, in proportion to the lightness of the load on the motor and its running speed.

JACK JOHNSON'S TERMS FOR BURNS' BOUT

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 8.—Sam Fitzpatrick, who is managing Jack Johnson, the negro heavyweight, telegraphed that pugilist will sign his name for a match with Tommy Burns for the $25,000 purse offered by Promoter Coffroth on either of the following conditions: "Burns can take $15,000, win or lose or draw, or Johnson will fight on the basis of 75 per cent. of the money to the winner and 25 per cent. to the loser."

Coffroth having made the offer, does not care now the men divide the money, and on being informed of Johnson's preparations he said he would congratulate with Burns. The conqueror of Squires is at present in his training quarters at one of the interior towns of the State.

BULL FIGHT FEATURE AT WONDERLAND

Sunday American Offers Free Tickets for Remarkable and Unusual Spectacle.

COUPONS GIVEN AWAY

An invitation to a bull fight would not seem strange in old Madrid or in some Spanish or Mexican cities of the New World, but it sounds odd in near Boston.

But it is an honest invitation, this one which the BOSTON SUNDAY AMERICAN extends to you.

For among the various attractions to which the BOSTON SUNDAY AMERICAN gives free tickets next Sunday is a trip to a Mexican bull fight at Wonderland.

The Wonderland group of coupons next Sunday is worth thirty cents to the holder. It consists of a free admission pass to Wonderland, a second ticket admitting you to the Velvet Coaster, and a third giving you the choice of seeing the "Rocky Mountain Hold-up" or the "Mexican Bull Fight" in Hale's Tours.

That is a total of thirty cents' worth of admissions. The tickets will be printed in the BOSTON SUNDAY AMERICA next Sunday and will be good on the following Monday or Tuesday, August 12 and 13, afternoon or evening.

The Mexican bull fight is a new attraction, never before put on by Hale's Tours at Wonderland, and especially arranged now for the holders of BOSTON SUNDAY AMERICA tickets.

The bull fight is realistic to an artistic climax. Even the sunburned Mexican spectators, for whose holiday the high-bred bull and his wretched steed are to be butchered, and the picadors taunting the bull. The action leads up to the final stroke, administered by the skilful matador.

If you elect the Rocky Mountain Hold-up you see a phase of life familiar to the West but known to us only by describing. It depicts, with startling reality, the desperate deeds of Western outlaws.

The Velvet Coaster has thrills of its own, and only thrills of motion, not of vision. A ride on the Coaster is invigorating to the most jaded nerves.

SUNDAY AMERICAN FREE TICKETS BOOM PLEASURE RESORTS

The unprecedented good weather of the last few weeks and the BOSTON SUNDAY AMERICAN'S generous free ticket system have made business profitable at Revere Beach, where high rents and other discouragements must be met, and the money earned in a brief season of three months.

The leading attractions for which next Sunday's AMERICAN will give free tickets are:

Theatre Comique, Fairyland Theatre, Mystic Bill, Automatic Bowling Alley, Rough Rider (Spoopendyke), Human Roulette, Go-Round and Horace's Hurdlers on the Boulevard, and the Switchback Railway, Scenic Railway, Three-Way Figure-Eight Roller Coaster and Roller-way Skating Rink on the Avenue. A coupon and five cents gives a ten-cent ride or two five-cent rides in all cases except the Skating Rink, where one is covered for twenty admissions and counts for ten cents toward ladies' skates.

In looking over next Sunday's coupons you who live in the vicinity of Canobie Lake will find the most convenient Southern New Hampshire beauty spot. The free ticket will be there good for admission to the theatre, another for a ride in the Scenic Railway, conspicuously called the "Airships," and one for the Switchback.

Lexington Park, too, is represented again, and a free ticket to Lexington will be published next Sunday entitling the families, especially the little folks, to a free ride over Manager Benson's animal preserves and to the other attractions named in the ticket representing a ten-cent admission at the gate on two days of next week.

Natty New Garb for Uncle Sam's Men of the Navy

Here are two pictures—Uncle Sam's sailor of to-day (the lower photograph) and Uncle Sam's sailor of to-morrow (the upper photograph). For the powers that be in the Navy Department have decided in moderate our blackjack's uniform. The new one is the result of the refusal of hotel, theatre, restaurant and amusement park owners to allow sailors to enter their places on account of their uniform. The new one is expected to be so unobtrusive there can be no objection.

FAIRBANKS RENTS MINING KING'S VILLA

MANCHESTER-BY-THE-SEA, Aug. 8.—Mrs. Charles Warren Fairbanks, wife of the Vice-President, and her family, have taken the George H. Hood villa on Norton's Point that was formerly occupied by Thomas F. Does Woman Think About Nothing But MAN?

Not a Bit of It. But Many People Think She Does

Copyright, 1907, by American-Journal-Examiner

The genial Mr. Schwab has been giving advice to young women. His views, written by Miss Angela Morgan for the BOSTON AMERICAN, we find interesting—and we disagree with every one of them.

He says to young women, "Don't cry for a career. MEN do not like brilliant women."

The woman intelligent enough to want to do something ISN'T SITTING UP ALL NIGHT WONDERING WHAT MEN CARE ABOUT. When Mr. Schwab went into the steel business he didn't wonder whether women liked steel men or not. The woman who wants a career of whatever kind should go at her career, not waste time wondering what MEN WANT.

Our opinion is that the very best possible career for a woman is that of a mother. If a woman can have three or four good sons working to her honor and glory, that seems to us better than competing more or less with some other woman's individual son. It is divine to be a creator of men. But if a woman wants to cut a figure in the material world, that is her business: what men admire need not influence her.

Mr. Schwab gives "don'ts" to girls. Says he: "Don't adopt a business or professional life. MAN'S love is won by the quiet home body who can cook and darn and wash the dishes."

While it is true that man's love is won by a home body, Mr. Schwab's Pittsburg friends can tell him that man's love is often LOST subsequently by that same quiet home body who can cook and darn.

The gentleman who gets the millions and has married "the home body who can COOK AND DARN" is quite apt to get interested in some OUTDOOR body who can DANCE AND SING.

For further details go to Pittsburg.

A woman ought to know all that she can about housekeeping, cooking and sewing. But it is a mistake to suppose that woman was created principally to fill men's stomachs, darn their socks and keep down their bills. Women should be good housekeepers, BECAUSE THEY HAVE GOT TO BE GOOD HOUSEKEEPERS FOR THEIR CHILDREN'S SAKE. But they should devote to the development of their BRAIN, to their power of thought, their best and strictest attention.

Mr. Schwab and other men who say to women, "Don't study Greek and Latin, don't study sculpture and music, don't talk about Beethoven or Maeterlinck," are the first men to be bitterly disappointed if their sons and daughters do not turn out to be intelligent.

The more intelligence a WOMAN has, the more her CHILDREN will have.

If a woman will read intelligently that wonderful book, "The Life of the Bee," by Maeterlinck, it will do her brain more good than to read all of Mr. Schwab's advice about sewing and cooking.

If all women living could hear often music of Beethoven, and hand on to their children the inspiration of that wonderful genius, it would be a very great thing for the human race. The people of Germany are happy in the fact that they hear so much good music, and the people of the United States are unfortunate because they hear so little.

Mr. Schwab says also, "Don't cultivate aggressive qualities." That is poor advice to give to women who work as school teachers, and that are swindled by unequal pay.

It is poor advice to give to all of the women that are compelled to earn their living, and that are almost invariably underpaid BECAUSE THEY ARE WOMEN.

Men have only progressed as they have developed aggressiveness. It was aggressiveness that changed the serf into a land owner and the slave into a free man.

It was aggressiveness that gave Mr. Schwab his large fortune, and his large house, and the opportunity to talk to Angela Morgan. Aggressiveness of the mind, which means intellectual force, IS JUST EXACTLY WHAT WOMEN NEED. And they ought to develop it.

Congratulations to Mr. Moran,

And Also to the Public, That He Has Regained His Health and His NERVE.

The Grand Jury is investigating the rumors that the city loan bill was put through the Common Council by bribery. Whether the Grand Jurors succeed in getting at the facts in the case will depend largely upon their persistence, and their freedom from the influence of politicians. At least one recent Grand Jury has had a narrow escape from a serious scandal owing to the success with which political pull has been exerted in behalf of certain politicians.

Whether this present investigation proves the rumors that have had such general circulation to be true or false the public is to be congratulated upon the fact that John B. Moran is seated in the District Attorney's chair.

There has been much criticism of Mr. Moran, but even his enemies will admit that his presence in the District Attorney's office has kept the grafters at City Hall in a continual state of anxiety.

What would have happened had Moran not been district attorney, only an optimist should attempt to say.

Maybe the rumors that have been going about City Hall are false. Maybe bribes were NOT given for votes to spend the people's money; maybe they WERE. In either event, this investigation ought to be continued until the TRUTH is determined. The fact that Moran has his health back and has undertaken the task is a pretty good guarantee that this will be done.

Little Editorials from the People

FAVORITE EDITORIALS.

Editor BOSTON AMERICAN:

I presume many condemn you and many praise your work as editor, and I wish to follow in the procession of those who can see the good. May you continue. I read your editorials many times. Can place them in a scrap book for my children or others to read. These are my favorites: "Did You Ever See a Man Steal a Bottle of Water?" "Did You Ever Get Discouraged?" "Good Night," "Lincoln," "Don't Cut Off a Leg," "This Is Not a Fairy Dream," "Six Months in the Workhouse," "Acquisition of Knowledge."

Yours respectfully,

THEY SUFFER BECAUSE THE BOAT IS OVERCROWDED

The Sheik Raisuli

By James J. Montague

SNAPPING his thumbs at the throb of the drums
Of the armies that rally to scare him,
Raisuli sits calm 'neath a sheltering palm
And winks at a minx in his harem.
"They're so hot on my trail that I ought to turn pale,"
He chuckles, untroubled and coolly,
"For I've kindled their ire and the vengeance is dire
That they'll wreak on the Sheik Raisuli!"

THEN he swings his gaunt knees with indifferent ease
O'er the the back of a fiery stallion,
Gallops merrily forth to the sea-circled north,
And comes back with a captured battalion.
He proclaims what he'll do to a colonel or two,
Unless they are paid for all duly,
And to get their release the pursuers must cease
To seek for the Sheik Raisuli.

THE warships may roar and a whole army corps
May plot for his swift extirpation,
And they can't understand it, because one lone bandit
Can hand them the harsh cachinnation,
Though he's bold and he's bad we could almost feel glad
If some of our warriors had truly
In the innermost parts of their battle-scarred hearts
Just a streak of the Sheik Raisuli.

IN forming an aquarium, first of all pick out a few flounders. They take up very little room, being less than one story high. They can be trained to serve as an excellent substitute for tiling in the bathroom.

Recompense

STRAIGHT through my heart
this fact to-day,
By Truth's own hand is driven:
God never takes one thing away
But something else is given.

I did not know in earlier years
This law of love and kindness.
I only mourned through bitter tears
My loss, in sorrow's blindness.

But ever following each regret
O'er some departed treasure,
My sad, repining heart was met
With unexpected pleasure.

I thought it only happened so;
But Time this truth has taught me:
No least thing from my life can go
But something else is brought me.

It is the law, complete, sublime,
And now with faith unshaken
In patience I but bide my time
When any joy is taken.

No matter if the crushing blow
May for the moment down me;
Still, back of it waits Love, I know,
With some new gift to crown me.

The Silly Woman Who Wants to Be Young

By Winifred Black

A BALTIMORE boy threatens to bring suit against his mother to make her publicly admit that he is twenty-one, as he says he is, instead of thirteen, as she insists on declaring.

The boy has documents to prove his side of the case, but the mother is obdurate, and the thing is to be taken into the court next week.

Here's looking at you, young man! I hope you win your suit, if it doesn't do a thing for you but help you to get out from under the thumb of a goose of a woman who thinks more of her own silly little vanity than she does of teaching her son to tell the truth.

What an insanity this age-concealing business is anyway.

I know a woman who has her two children call her "aunty" because she doesn't want people to think she is old enough to be their mother.

She's a little, silly, painted, giggling thing, without a real friend in the world, and nobody cares the paring of a finger nail whether she is sixteen or sixty.

All the people who might really like her if she were simple and honest make fun of her about her age and are so taken up with making that fun that they don't see some of the really good traits the poor little thing really has. I wonder what that woman's children think of her.

I wonder what she'll do when she finds out, as she will find out some day, that they laugh at her and despise her just as the rest of the world does.

Oh, I'd rather be as old as Methuselah and look older than the pyramids than to see a sneer in the eyes of my own flesh and blood when my own flesh and blood began to see through my silly little pretences and idle vanities.

When all the blandishments of life are gone,
The coward sneaks to death, the brave live on.
GEORGE SEWELL.
